Making the Best of It

Grant High School
331 E. State Street
Grant, Michigan 49327

As the rest of the world have to tighten their belts, so do we here at GHS because of this year's millage cuts.

The teachers have been touched by the budget's reduction in many ways; five teachers have been dismissed from the education program, with one on part time. Some teachers are teaching subjects they haven't majored in or haven't taught in a long time.

Students have been affected the most from the shortened selection of classes and activities; golf, tennis, and wrestling are some of the sports that have been cut. Student Council is the only school organization left for the young hopefuls. Advanced Chemistry and Business Training are just some of the classes no longer offered. There are only five classes a day, which means some students couldn't schedule the classes they wanted. Also, the kids going to the Vocational Center have to eat their lunches on the bus, due to the difference in the lunch schedule.

Even though we don't have as many classes and activities as in previous years, we're still getting along, having a good time, and "Making The Best Of It."

GHS Publications

The TIGER BEAT's business manager, Connie Kukla, labors over an advertising layout.

Sandy Afton, feature page editor, applies rubber cement to her page copy.

Sportswriter Robby Robinson's just completed another story for his column, "Robby's Riff Raff", a feature new to the TIGER BEAT this year.

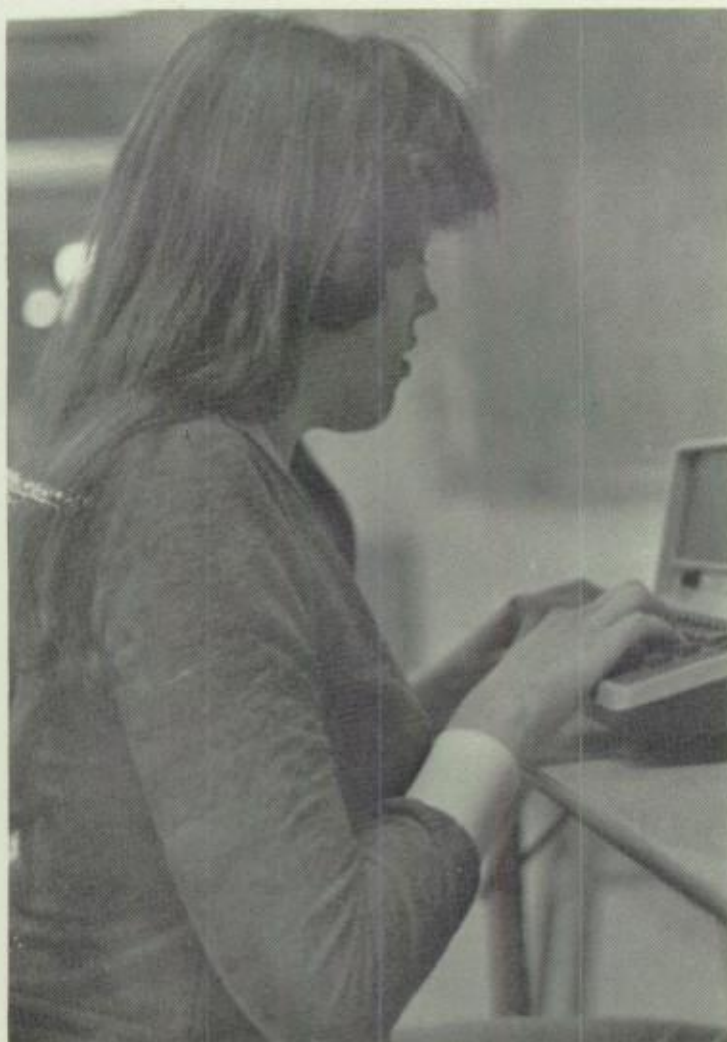

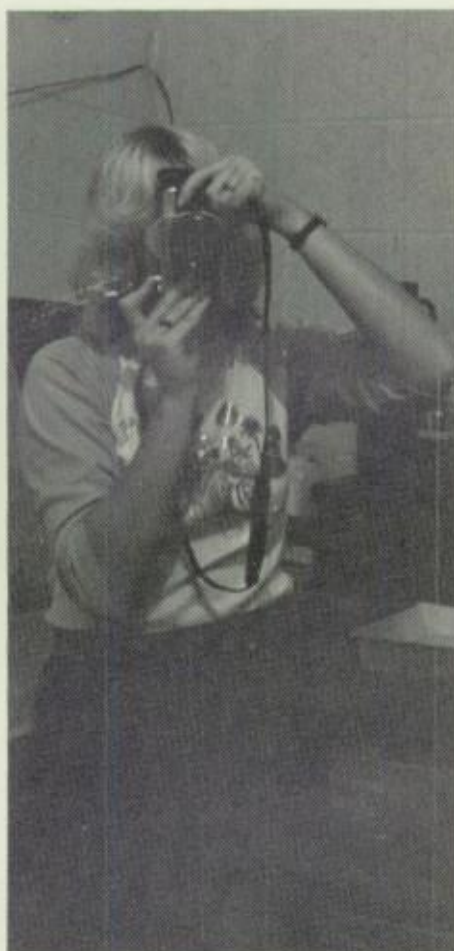

Jenny Niederer and Sandy Wright spend most of their 4th hour typing copy for the newspaper.

Get it Together

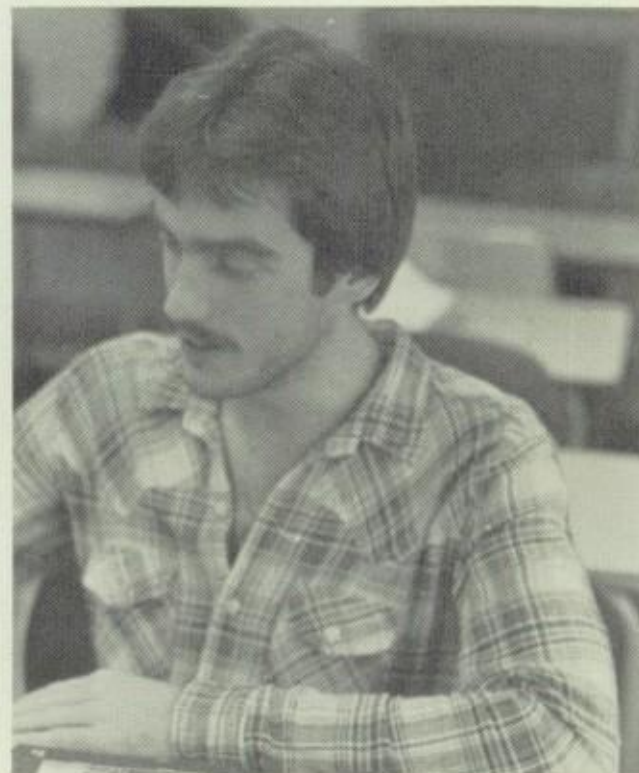

Staffers Carla Flynn and Connie Kukla discuss the best way to proportion a photo. Yearbook photographs are a product of Carol Hilbrand's many after-school hours.

Senior Cheryl Otte prepares a questionnaire for teachers to answer for the faculty section.

Activities editor Sally Swinehart ponders what to do next.

Greg VanKoeving plans how to make the senior section the best ever.

HOMECOMING '80... The Best Of It

Looking out at the crowd are senior candidates Julie Doxtater and Greg VanKoevinger.

Waiting in suspense at Homecoming '80 are senior candidates Brenda Ford and Tim Ransom.

The Class of 1981 has received fourth place in the float competition for the fourth year in a row!

Just before the announcement of this year's elected Prince and Princess, Jon George and Maria Osborn hope for the anticipation of the upcoming announcement. ➡

⬅ Sandy Wright and Brian Fletcher stand shivering in anticipation of the upcoming announcement.

This year's theme for the float competition was "Food". The juniors won first place.

Sophomores received second place, and the freshmen came in third.

Jean Dame and Tim Tibbe were junior candidates for Prince & Princess of Homecoming '80.

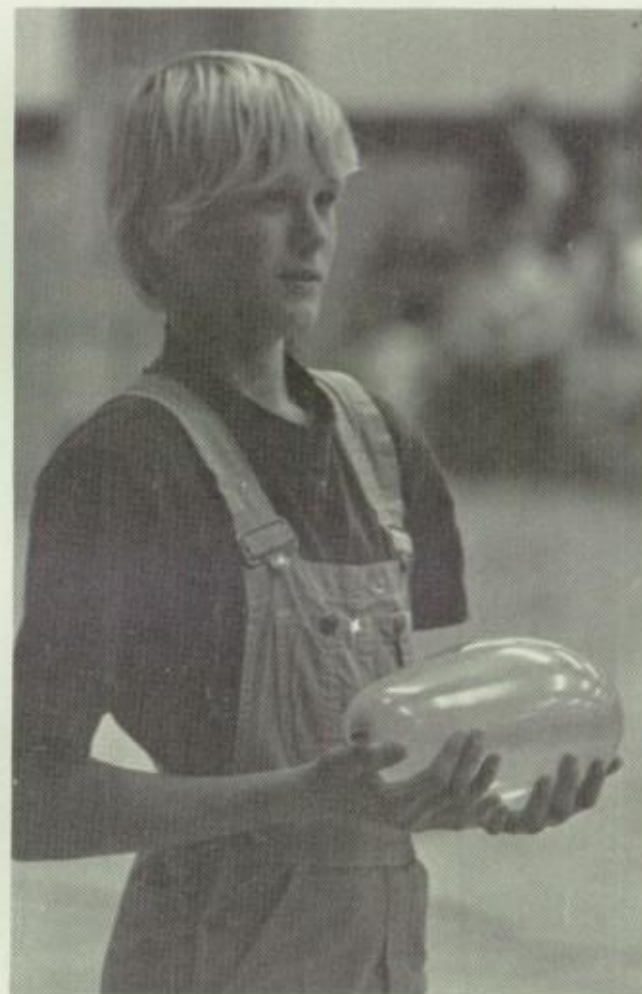

Margo McKinlay and Scot Cave represented the Class of '84.

Students Renew

Oink, oink . . . I sure love leftovers. Sophomore Paul Garza pulls mightily.

Who shall I bomb next?

Sandy Wright is ready to roll — with Brenda Ford as backseat driver.
Student Council president Greg VanKoevinger asks, "Is everybody ready?"

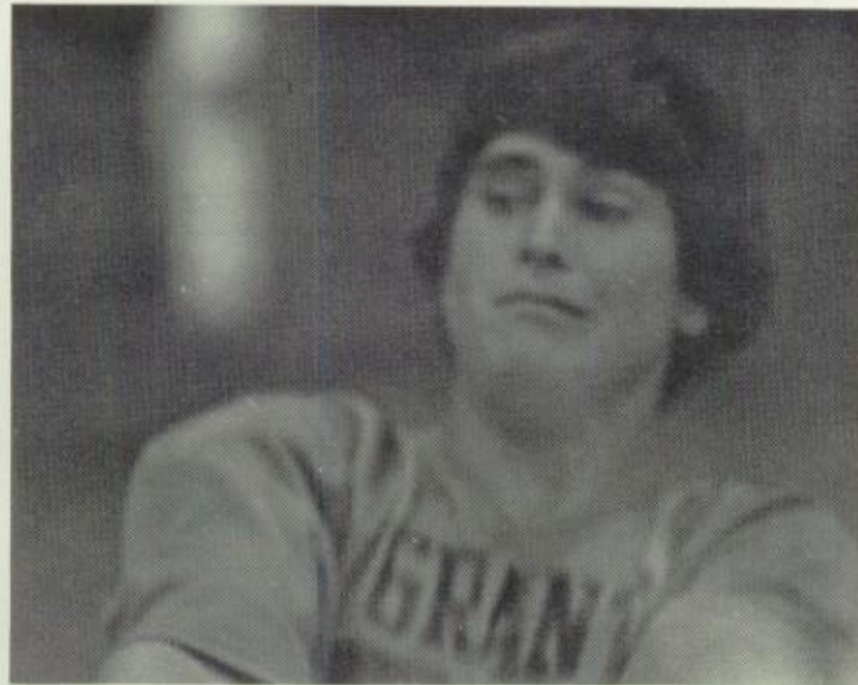

School Spirit

Seniors demonstrate world peace.
Tim Ransom wonders: "Why didn't anyone tell me it was going to be this hard?"

Good Lord, what's taking them so long?

The Friday pep assembly, capping Homecoming's week-long activities, captivated everyone. Hey, folks, the camera's over here!

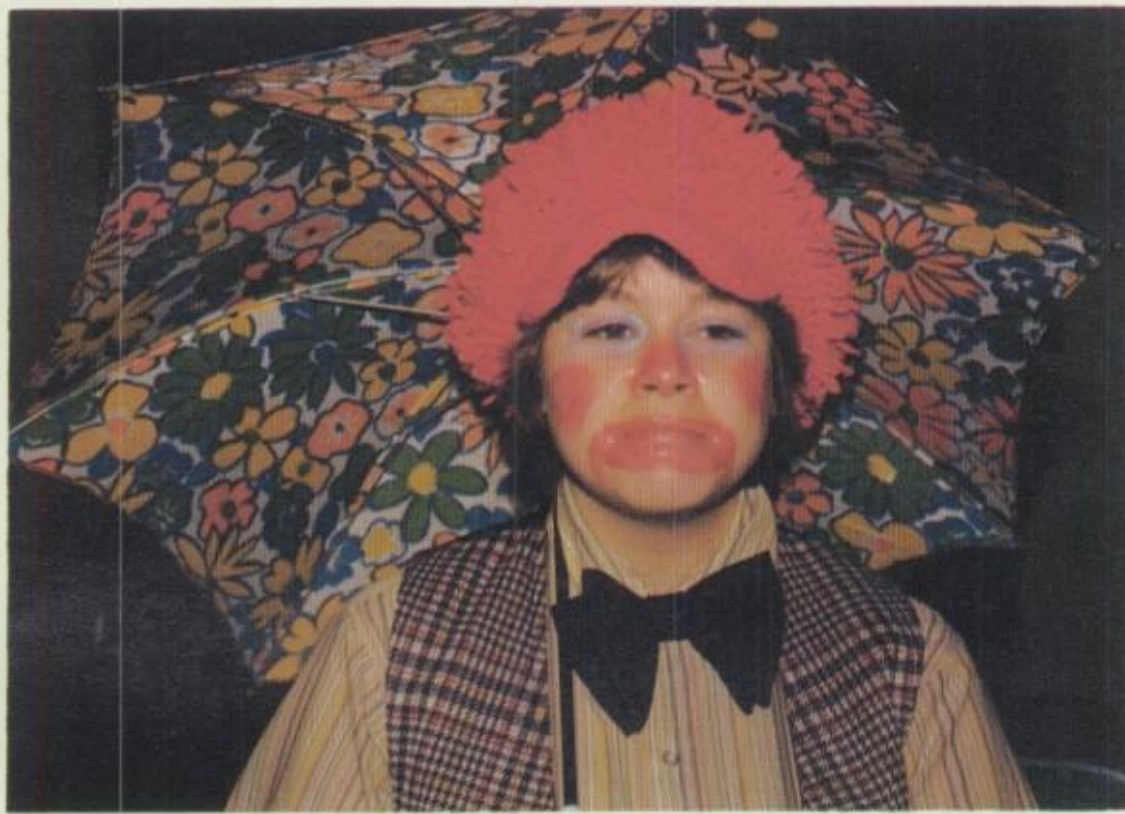

Homecoming Dress-Up Days...

Homecoming Week 1980 was as colorful as ever. Students and teachers alike made the best of the opportunity to dress in weird attire: Monday was 50's Day; Tuesday, Clown Day; Wednesday, Hat and Camera Day; Thursday, Dress Up Day; and Friday, Orange and Black Day.

Because they participated the most in dressing appropriately on these days, the seniors took first place in the competition.

A Week of Fun

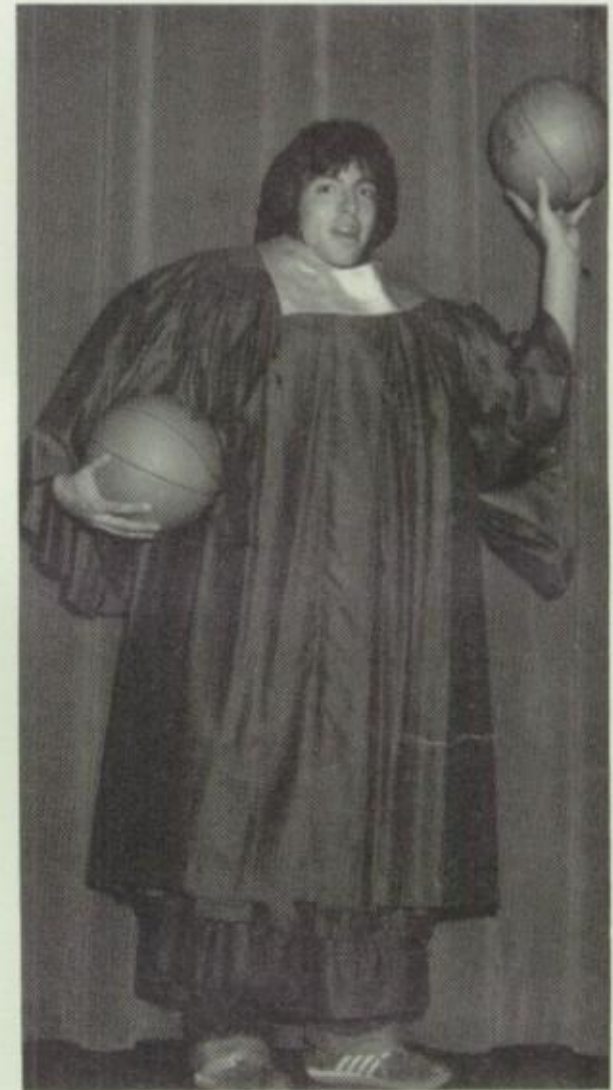

Choir Makes It with 27

"Because of the five-hour day, many students have not been able to fit in an 'extra' class—such as music. It has reduced the quantity, but not the quality," stated Mrs. Shirley Lemon, director of the choir.

The choir traveled to Muskegon for festival, where they were rated on their musical abilities.

"Music is an emotional outlet and singers can let feelings come out which may be held back in other circumstances," stated Mrs. Lemon, concerning the benefits of taking choir.

Pep Band Steps Into Marching Shoes

The choral director is teaching instrumental music because millage failure cut one music teacher. That meant that fewer students were involved and there could be no marching band.

Pep band replaced marching band during football season. It also played at the home basketball games.

Band students could be recognized by their cute shirts and funny hats they wore on days they performed.

Hard concentration is a requirement not only for practice, but also at concerts and festivals.

FFA Keeps Farm Going

Someone could greatly improve himself by either a) learning how to spell, or b) learning how to staple.

A farm is a full time project for anyone and the school farm is no exception to this. The FFA takes a hand in the running of it.

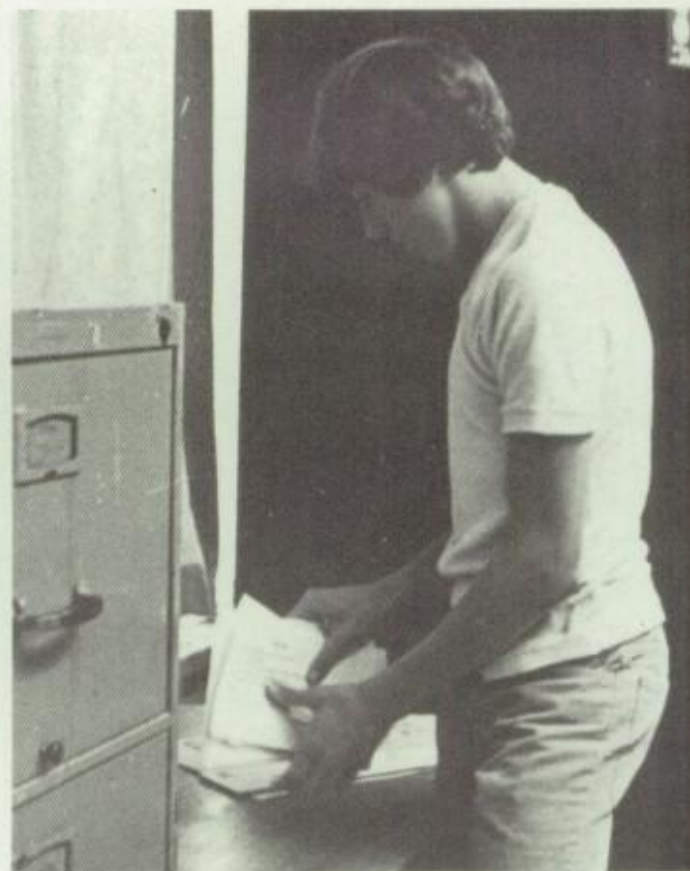

The students had "interesting" jobs, such as shoveling hog manure, planting corn, washing tractors, etc. They also had home projects, like caring for swine, dairy, and beef cows, or other animals and crops which were entered in the Newaygo County 4-H Fair last summer.

Tedd Butler looks down through the cobwebs that inhabit the barn. Maybe someone needs to do a little spring cleaning.

Dan Scarbrough and Loren Stuart measure a manger for the cows. Looks like those cows are getting the best.

Student Council Holds Student Body Together

Holding the position of Student Council officers for this year were Sue Allred, Secretary; Deb Haase, vice-president; Kurt Redinger, treasurer; Greg Vankovering, president.

Student Council worked hard to make this year the best ever, despite the almost non-existent budget.

A new committee called the Concerned Student Coalition (CSC) was formed. It was a group of students interested in showing the people that it would be necessary to pass the next millage.

Mr. Morgan looks on as Brenda Ford points out a few facts to the Student Council.

Science Gives Samples of Real Life Work

Several science courses are offered at GHS: Environmental Science, Accelerated Biology, Anatomy, Life Science, Chemistry, and Health. These gave students a variety of courses to take.

The "sacraharids with proteins inclusions," better known as peanut brittle, is one of the eatable experiments performed in chemistry class.

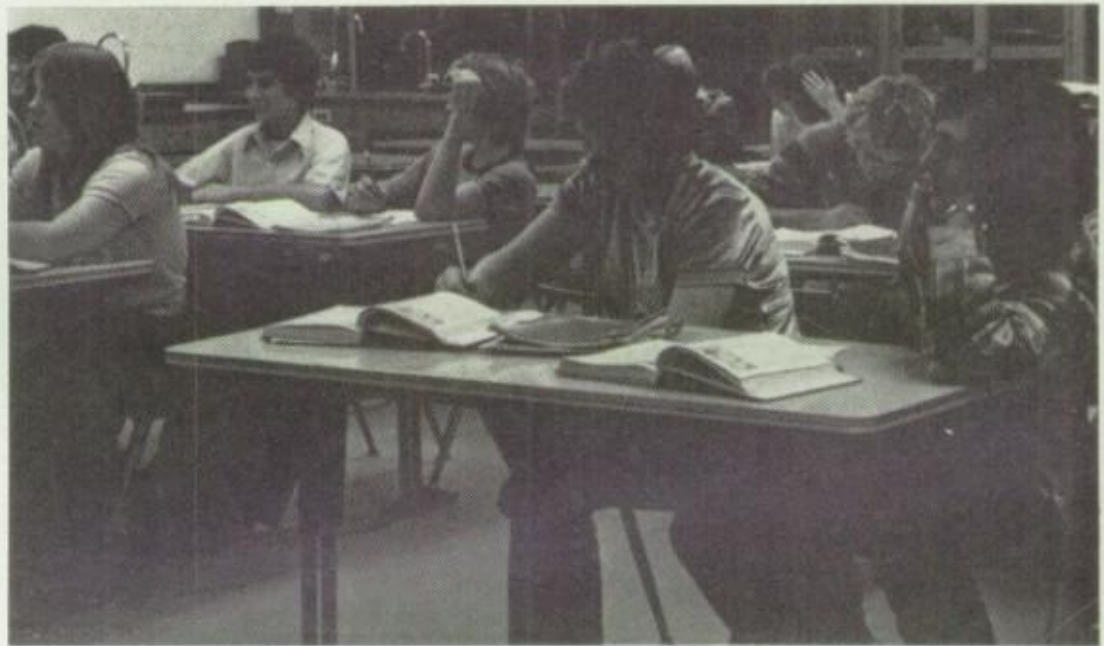

Cats take over the anatomy class. Students get a clearer picture of the anatomy and physiology of a human by dissecting cats.

Sara Murray and Maria Osborn, sophomores, study scientific cultures in Biology.

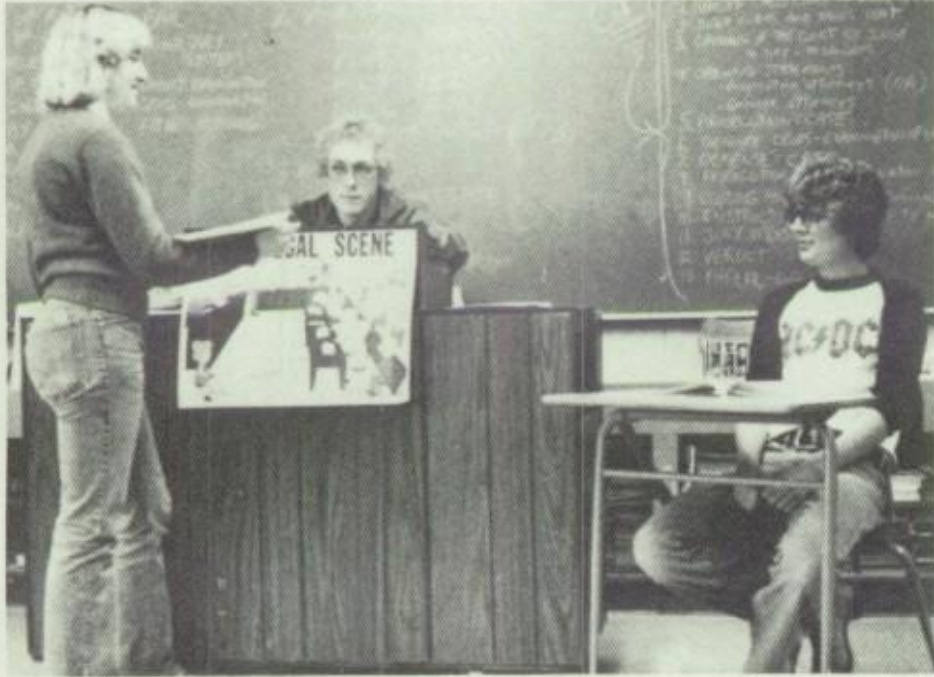

Taking an unauthorized break from one of Mrs. Thompson's Life Science classes, everyone looks enthused about something.

Another Life Science class was caught paying attention to Mrs. Thompson giving directions for the next experiment.

Students Involved

In Social Studies & Math

Judge George Behler listens attentively as lawyer Carol Hilbrand cross-examines Scott VanderWoude.

Ron Brisbin and Tim Tibbe weren't too concerned with U.S. History when the photographer came around.

Mr. Malone explained that his government and psychology classes offer "what seniors will need to know during the first five years after graduation."

Mr. Keniston, history teacher, stuck to the basics in his U.S. History classes, with reading, writing and discussions. The students made a project the second semester on anything, "as long as each student made his own."

This year in Mr. Joley's math classes students had some difficulties in solving linear, quadratic, third and fourth degree equations. Some of the changes Mr. Joley has seen this year from the past few years is "equations are getting more and more difficult."

Confused, Maria Osborn petitions for help in geometry.

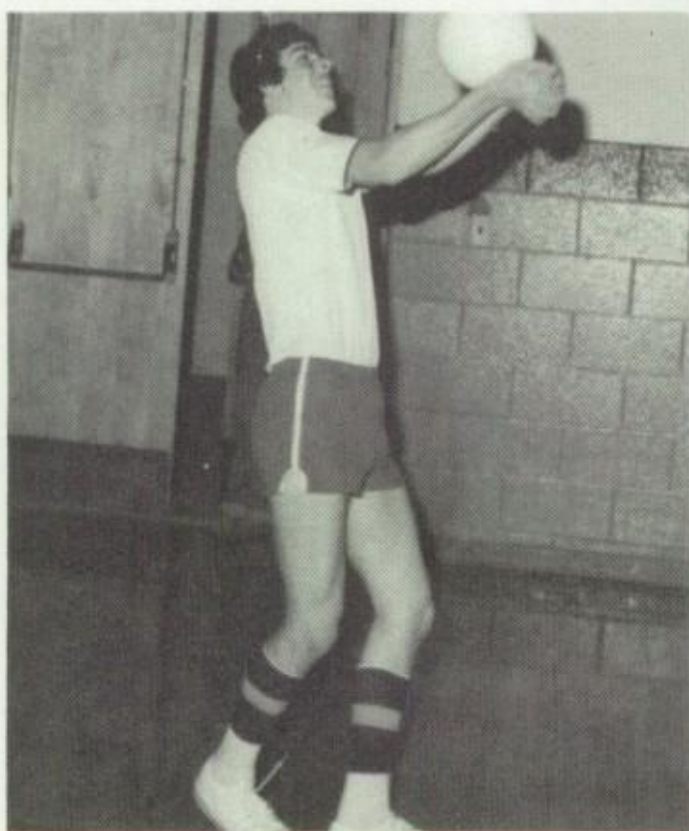

Talents Sported

In Physical Education Classes

Young men and women were able to engage in physical activities ranging from exercises to team games to individual talents.

"Running, jumping, yelling and having a good time while working is something done only in a physical education class," observed Mr. Cober, instructor.

General physical education classes strove for team spirit. There were more people than usual in each class this year because of the hour cutback, so team sports were played more frequently.

Flashing the peace sign is Louise Rusco.

Language Arts Provide Several Experiences

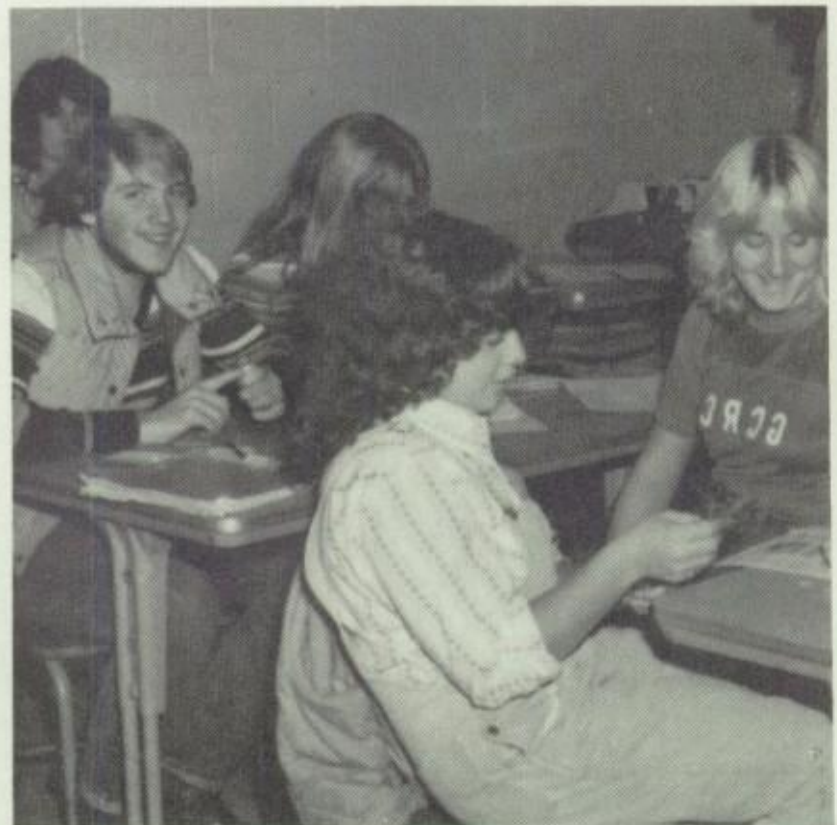

Advancing language skills are Greg Kukla and Scott Ferguson

Language Arts, required of all students, provides a great variety of things for the students to learn and do.

Communication Skills classes this year included the normal lectures, assignments and discussions. Incoming freshmen again played "Jeopardy" in Mrs. Korenstra's C.S. 101, using grammar and literature terms.

Word games and performing plays are also some of the fun things that happened in Ms. Oudshoorn's class.

One class that is not required is Spanish. Spanish students played "Scrabble" in Spanish and made Spanish foods.

Journalism students put English skills to work.

While studying, Pete Lieffers tries to keep himself warm.

Students Create Masterpieces Of Many Kinds

Creativity could be the key word in describing the art, shop, and home economics classes.

Doing sculptures, working with clay and painting are some of the art students' favorite things to do.

About the shop classes, Mr. Becker joked, "Stealing the shop tools enables us to spend more time sorting out wood shavings for textured gluing projects."

The home economics classes made aprons the first semester so that when the second semester rolled around they would be protected from their experiments in cooking.

A masterpiece has been created in the art room.

Taking a break from sewing, students study new areas of material in home economics.

Students work with wood to create useful items.

Even the creative minds of art students sometime need help from "Huck."

Students Expand Learning Abilities

Miss Winegarden administers help to Connie Duff, junior, in the Resource Room. Looks like everyone is here today!

The shorthand class poses prettily for their picture. If they smile like that at a job interview, what employer could resist hiring them?

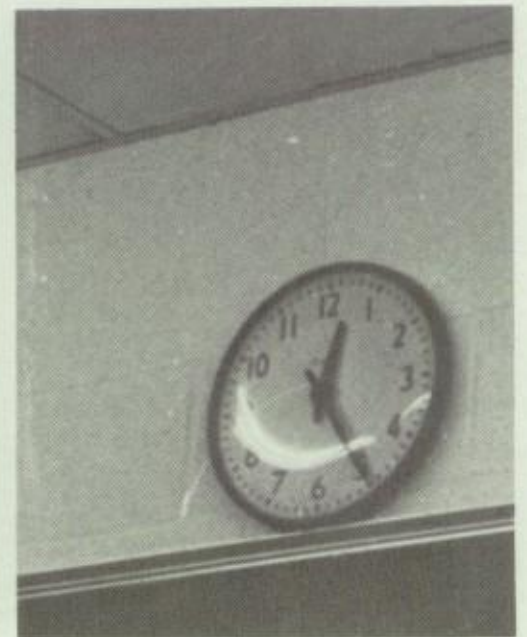

In the business field shorthand, bookkeeping and typing were offered this past year.

For fun the typing classes enjoyed typing football, relay races and typing to music.

Believe it or not, but for about ten minutes at the beginning of the hour in shorthand the main topic was TV's "General Hospital." The girls and Mrs. Baldus discussed what went on the day before for those who were not able to watch the show. The girls even wrote letters in shorthand to one of the characters of the show.

One of the many things that has been cut this year because of the millage failure is Quadrasonics. This was a workset which formerly the students worked on for about a month. It helped them learn checks, balances, and other things. But the bookkeeping class didn't let not having this activity hinder them. They still learned these skills.

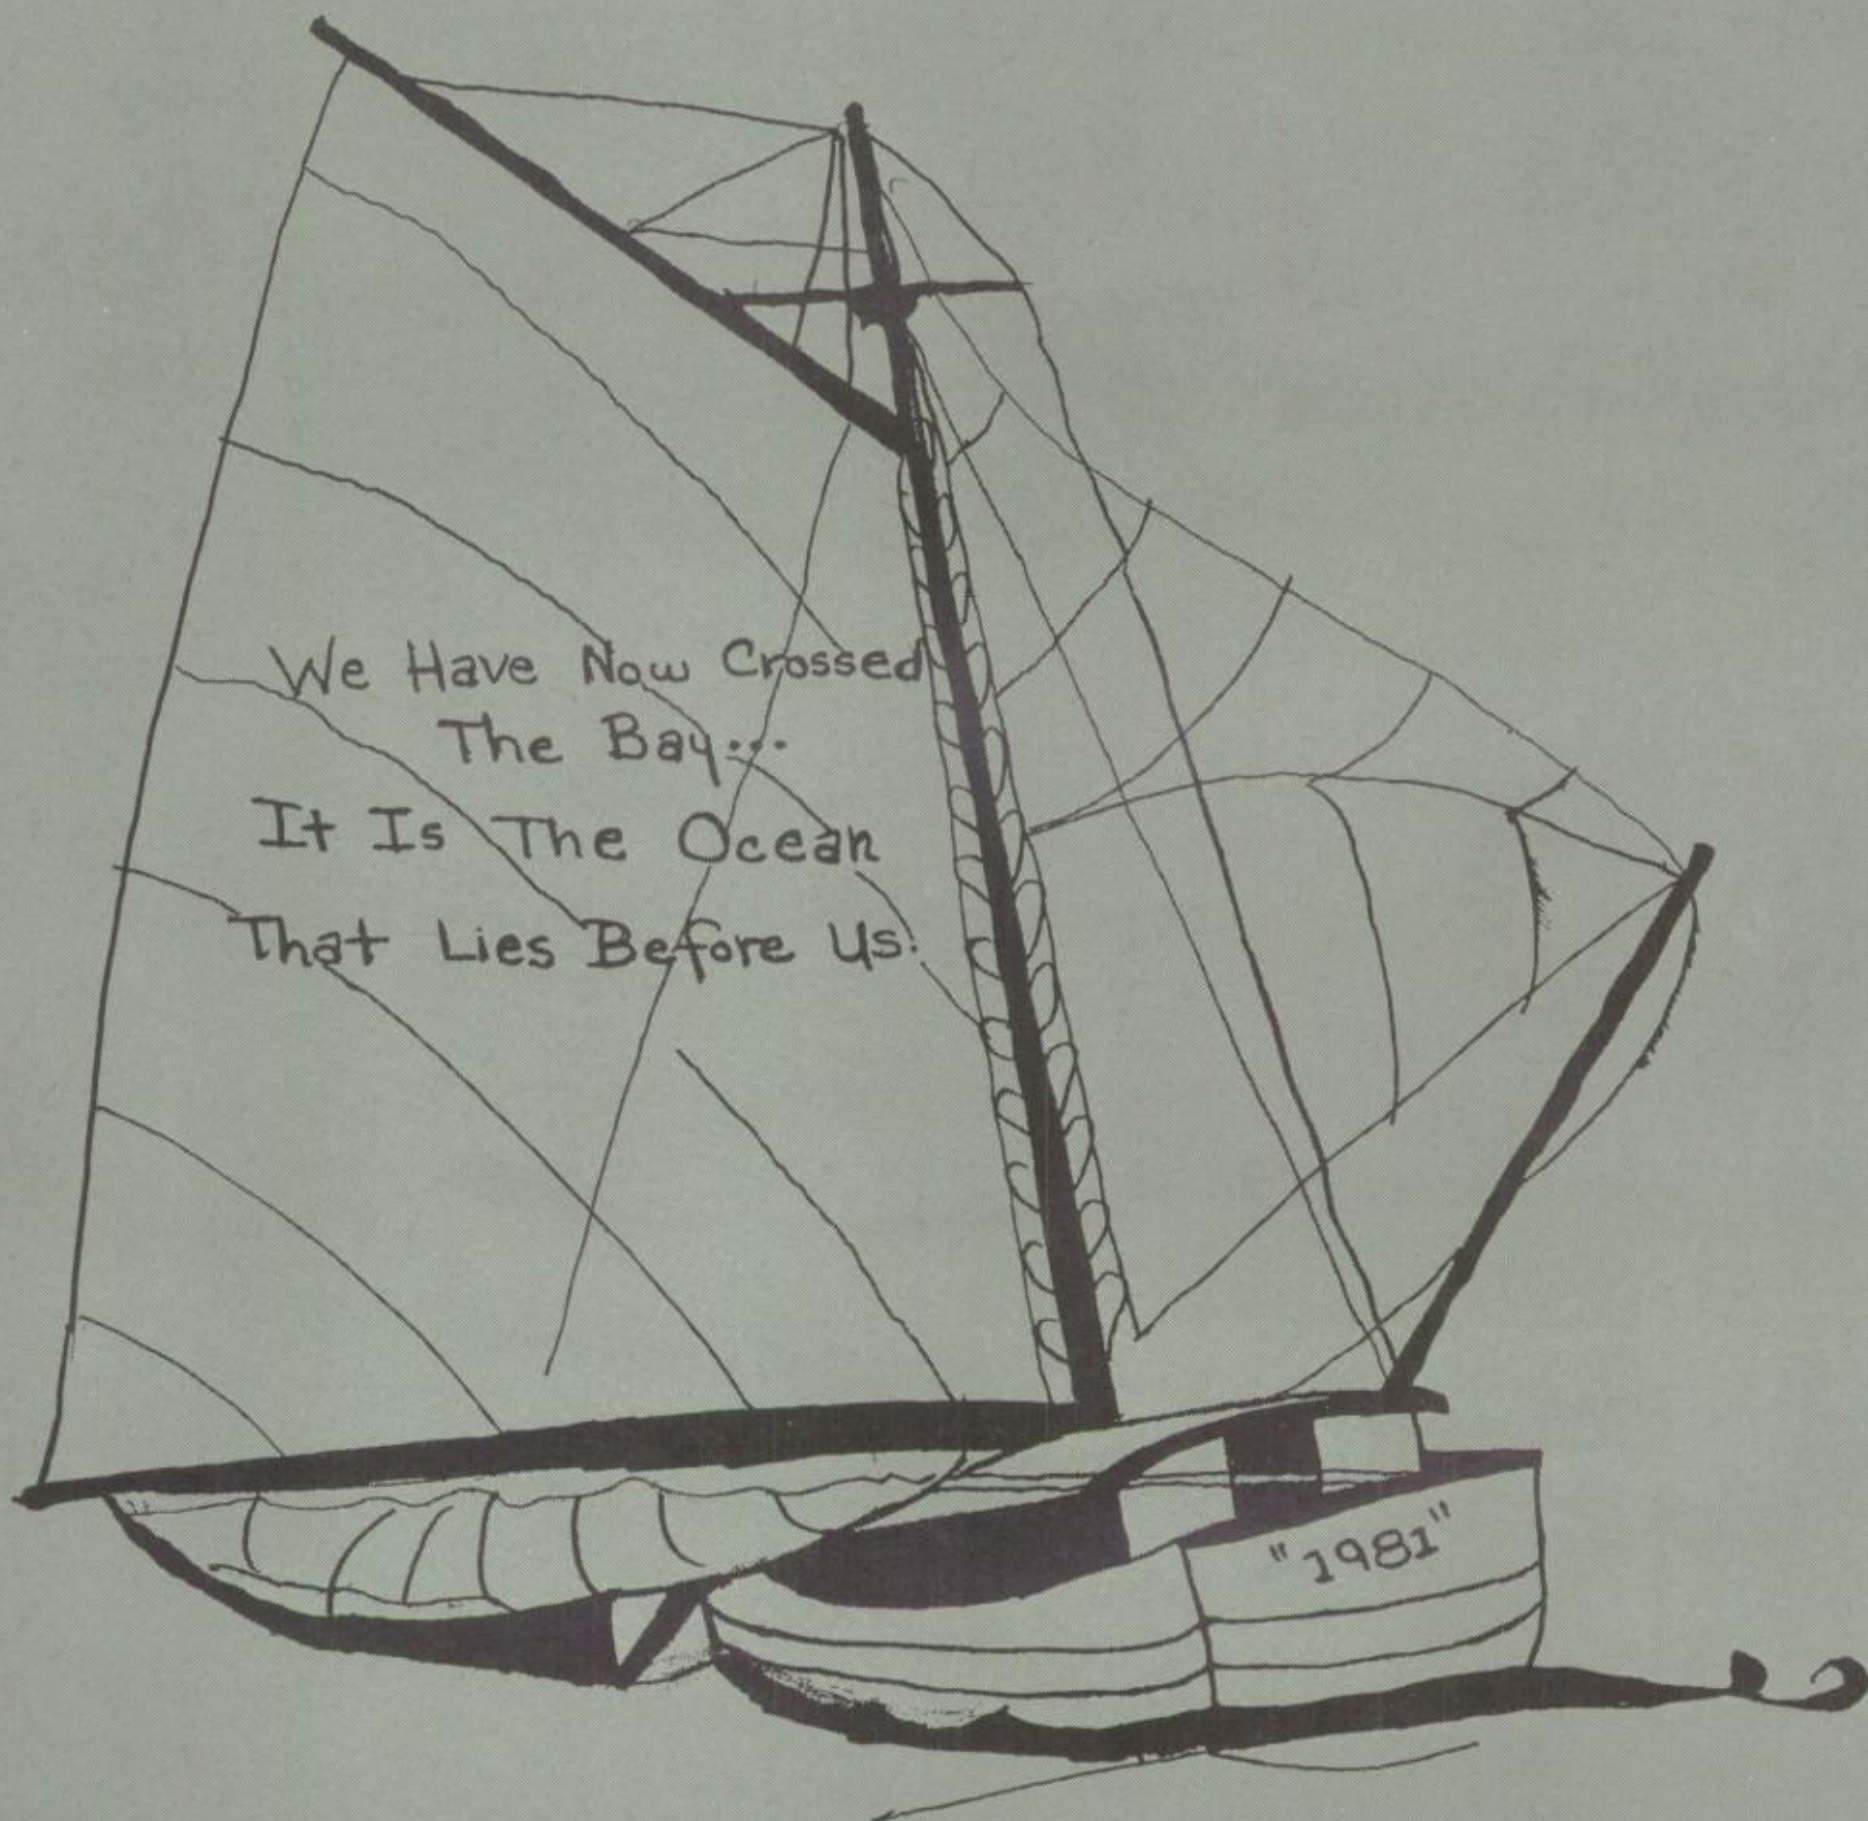

American literature, health, social studies, and English courses kept the resource room students busy. They worked hard at mastering these subjects.

Senior Celebrities

Phil Teusink and Cathy Jurich, shyest couple, try to hide in the lobby.

Greg Vankoevinger and Deb Haase prove to be the most likely to succeed as they laugh over some office work.

Most musically inclined are Karen Sorden and Ron Armstrong. Is that all you do—smile and sit pretty?

Hail Talents

Carol Hilbrand and Marty Isenhardt demonstrate their deviousness by taking down one of the cheerleaders' hand-painted posters.

Brian Fletcher sings of his love for Sandy Wright when the two are nominated class flirts.

You can bet their friendship will last a long time. Karen Smith and Pam Daniels shake on it.

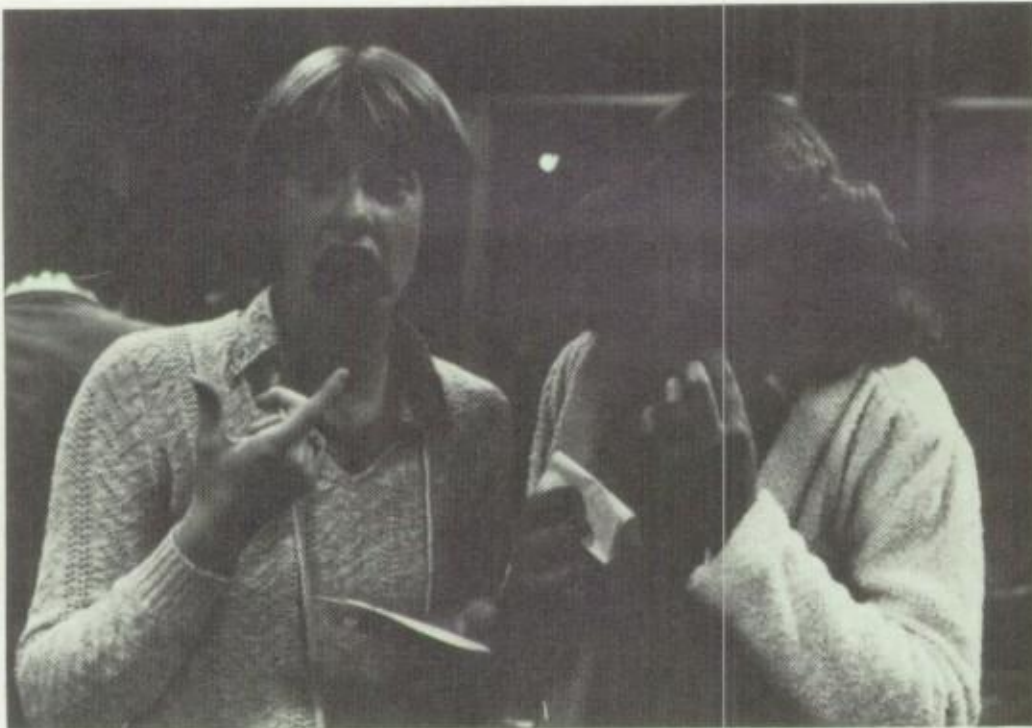

Talents Revealed

Hilda Rodriguez and Tim Ransom are most athletic? I bet they don't win many games in that position.

Best buddies Jeff Hunter and Chris Gerencer demonstrate a new way to arm wrestle. Does that work?

Sally and Sally play innocent after they've already been busted

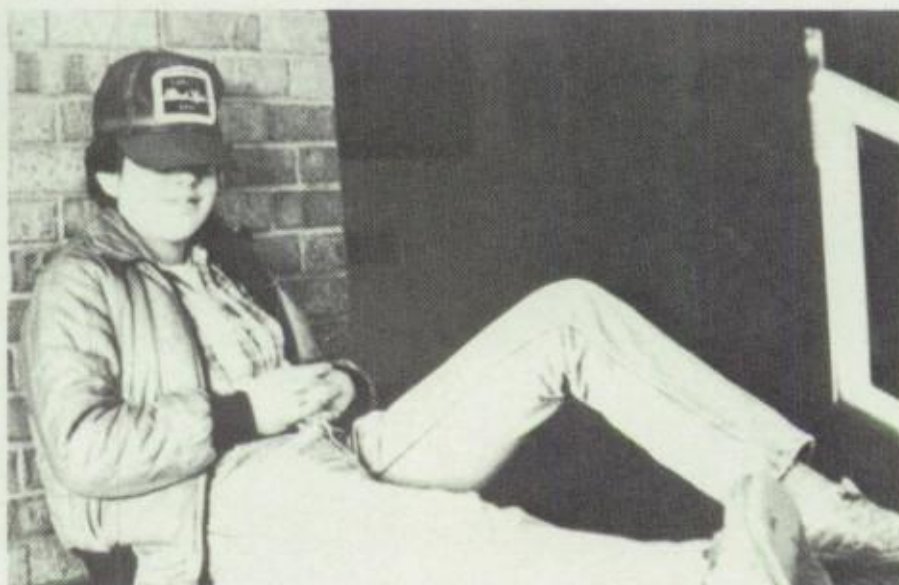

Sheri Higgins and Tim Pusema exhibit their bad tempers with a petty squabble in the lobby.

Class hot rods, Kim Murray and Chuck Vanloon, give Police Chief Ranger a break. At least he won't need to give out as many tickets with these two off the roads.

Kyla Hooker, Class Partier, relaxes before she has to go to her next class.

Denise Shepard and John Henry take it easy, which is all they ever seem to do. Maybe that's why they were named most easy-going.

The craziest people are undoubtedly George Behler and Kolen Cook. This is how they spend their leisure time.

Peggy Hubbard and Ben Knapp, sweetest in the class, share a big sucker.

The work piles up as Steve Puchalla and Alice Bull procrastinate one more day.

Scott VanderWoude awaits an invitation to a party, as he was voted class partier.

Those big browns won Shari Henry and Dale Furguson votes for prettiest eyes.

Julie Doxtater and Phill Chrisler show off their "best bodies," wondering if they are showing their best sides.

Brown-nosers Steve Baldus and Mary Christy throw a few suggestions at Mr. Cober.

Tim Roeters and Connie Kukla, most fun to be with, spread a little of the snow around outside the school.

Training for Future

Has Minor Drawbacks

One hundred and twenty-seven students took advantage of the training facilities provided at the Newaygo County Area Vocational Center in Fremont. There are a variety of courses offered, ranging from Child Care to Welding.

Voc. Center students have gone through the rigors of eating lunches on the bus this year, because their lunch hour was cut out of their schedules due to the millage failure.

"No need to worry," coaxes cosmetology student Cheryl Otte, senior, "I know what I'm doing."

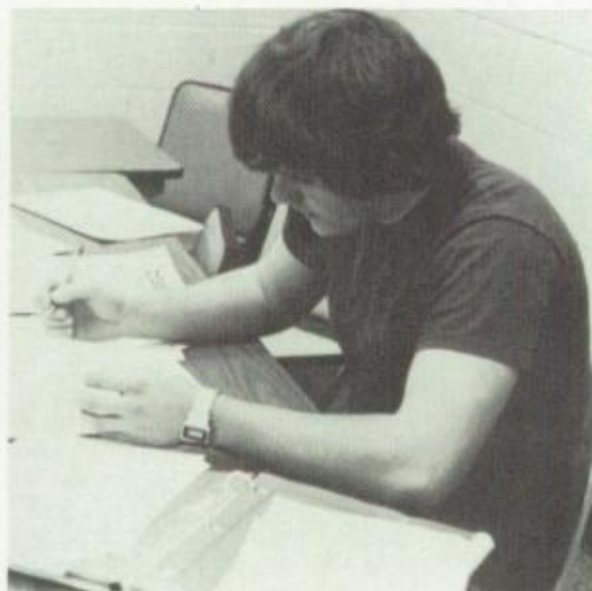

Junior Jeff Sotello works enthusiastically in Graphic Arts.

Junior Tim Xerrio sits listening intently to instructor, Mr. McDonald, as he explains how the engine really works in Automotives I.

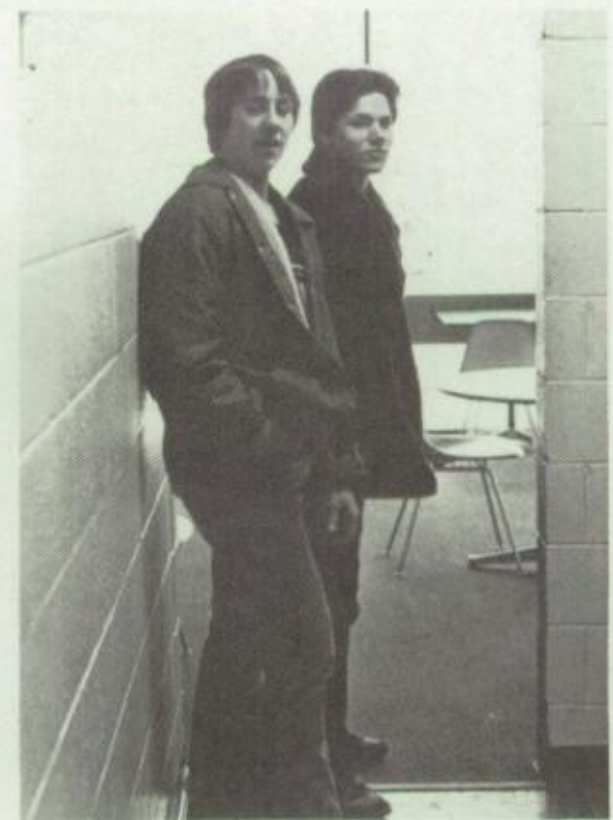

"Now, if only I could remember what I was going to type," says junior Renae Robinson.

Data Processing student, Darrin Desrosiers sits over his work with a determined mind.

"I'm supposed to type what's on this blank piece of paper; how ridiculous," gripes senior Lynn Keith.

Students Give Time to Youngsters

Toni Bisson, senior, is interrupted from her explanation to this cute little kid.

Some students here at GHS decided to go to the Primary Center, Elementary, and Junior High to help the teachers of kindergarten through the eighth grades. They have obtained a full credit for their assistance and have also received a great deal of knowledge while working with the younger scholars of Grant.

These youngsters' attention is held by Irma Santellan, senior, who works in Mrs. Wolff's first grade room.

Chris Ingell, senior, searches diligently for a lost paper.

Lisa Cole demonstrates how to cut paper properly as this little girl looks on.

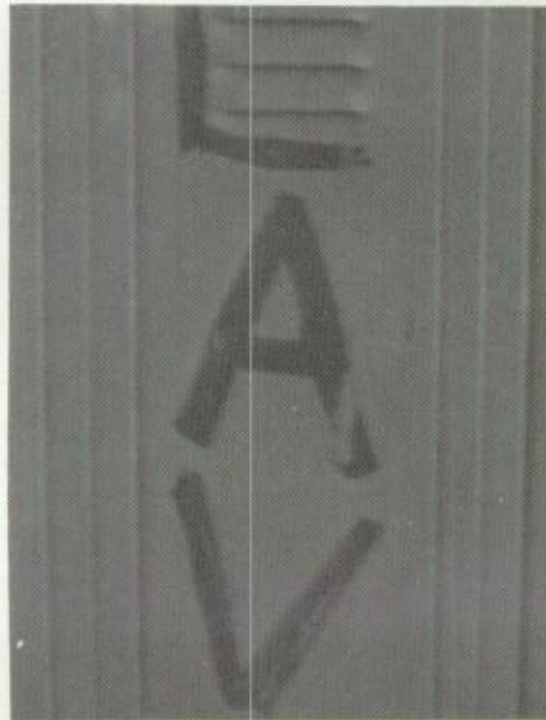

Wanted: Teenage

Entertainment for teenagers is not one of Grant's assets. This probably does cause some of the problems involving the younger crowd.

Students have always found things to do, despite the distance they've had to travel to do it. One of the most popular events that is religiously attended by some GHS students is the dance held every Saturday at Bloomfield Gardens. Some of the teens also spend much of their week rollerskating there.

"If you happen to be going to the dance at Bloomfield tonight, could you possibly give me a lift?" asks sophomore Val Eskola.

LAV FM 97 is one of the most listened to rock radio stations by the Grant High teenagers.

"I wish the weekend would hurry up and get here, I'm bored with these weekdays!" says junior Joanne Herweyer.

"Are you guys going to hang out with the gang again tonight? Shame on you," giggles senior Julie Doxtater.

Entertainment in Grant

Senior Louise Rusco stretches out to get rested for the big bash weekend coming up.

"Ooops!" says senior Sheri Higgins.

"Decisions, decisions! I can't decide on what I want to bring to the party," ponders senior Louise Rusco.

Junior Annette Bonter doesn't have very much to say when it comes to talking about what she does when she's not in school.

Joe's Dog House is often frequented at noon hour and after school. Its low prices and good food is appealing to student's pocketbooks.

The new recreation hall behind Arturo's is the only other source of entertainment in Grant. To see a movie, go bowling, skiing or swimming, students have to travel at least ten miles.

Although not always satisfied with the current situation, most teens manage to find something to fill their time.

Co-oppers Earn

Many students prepare themselves for their future careers while still attending high school. They receive three full credits for their ambition and hard work.

Some of the co-op jobs consist of office work, machine trades, data processing, nursing and farm implements.

On the job training for the teens results in a paycheck every week or every other week. This helps them to learn the importance of managing their money. They also learn the promptness and responsibility it takes to keep a job.

"Who's sorry now!" exclaims senior Dan Bonter, who works at Bonter Slaughterhouse.

While on the job at the One Stop, senior Rhonda Brandt wishes that it didn't take so much time to count change.

"Proofreading is the most tedious job I can think of!" says Penny Zerlaut during work hours at the Grant Tower.

While They Learn

"Did you want this gift wrapped?" asks senior George Behler on duty at the Zephyr station in Bailey

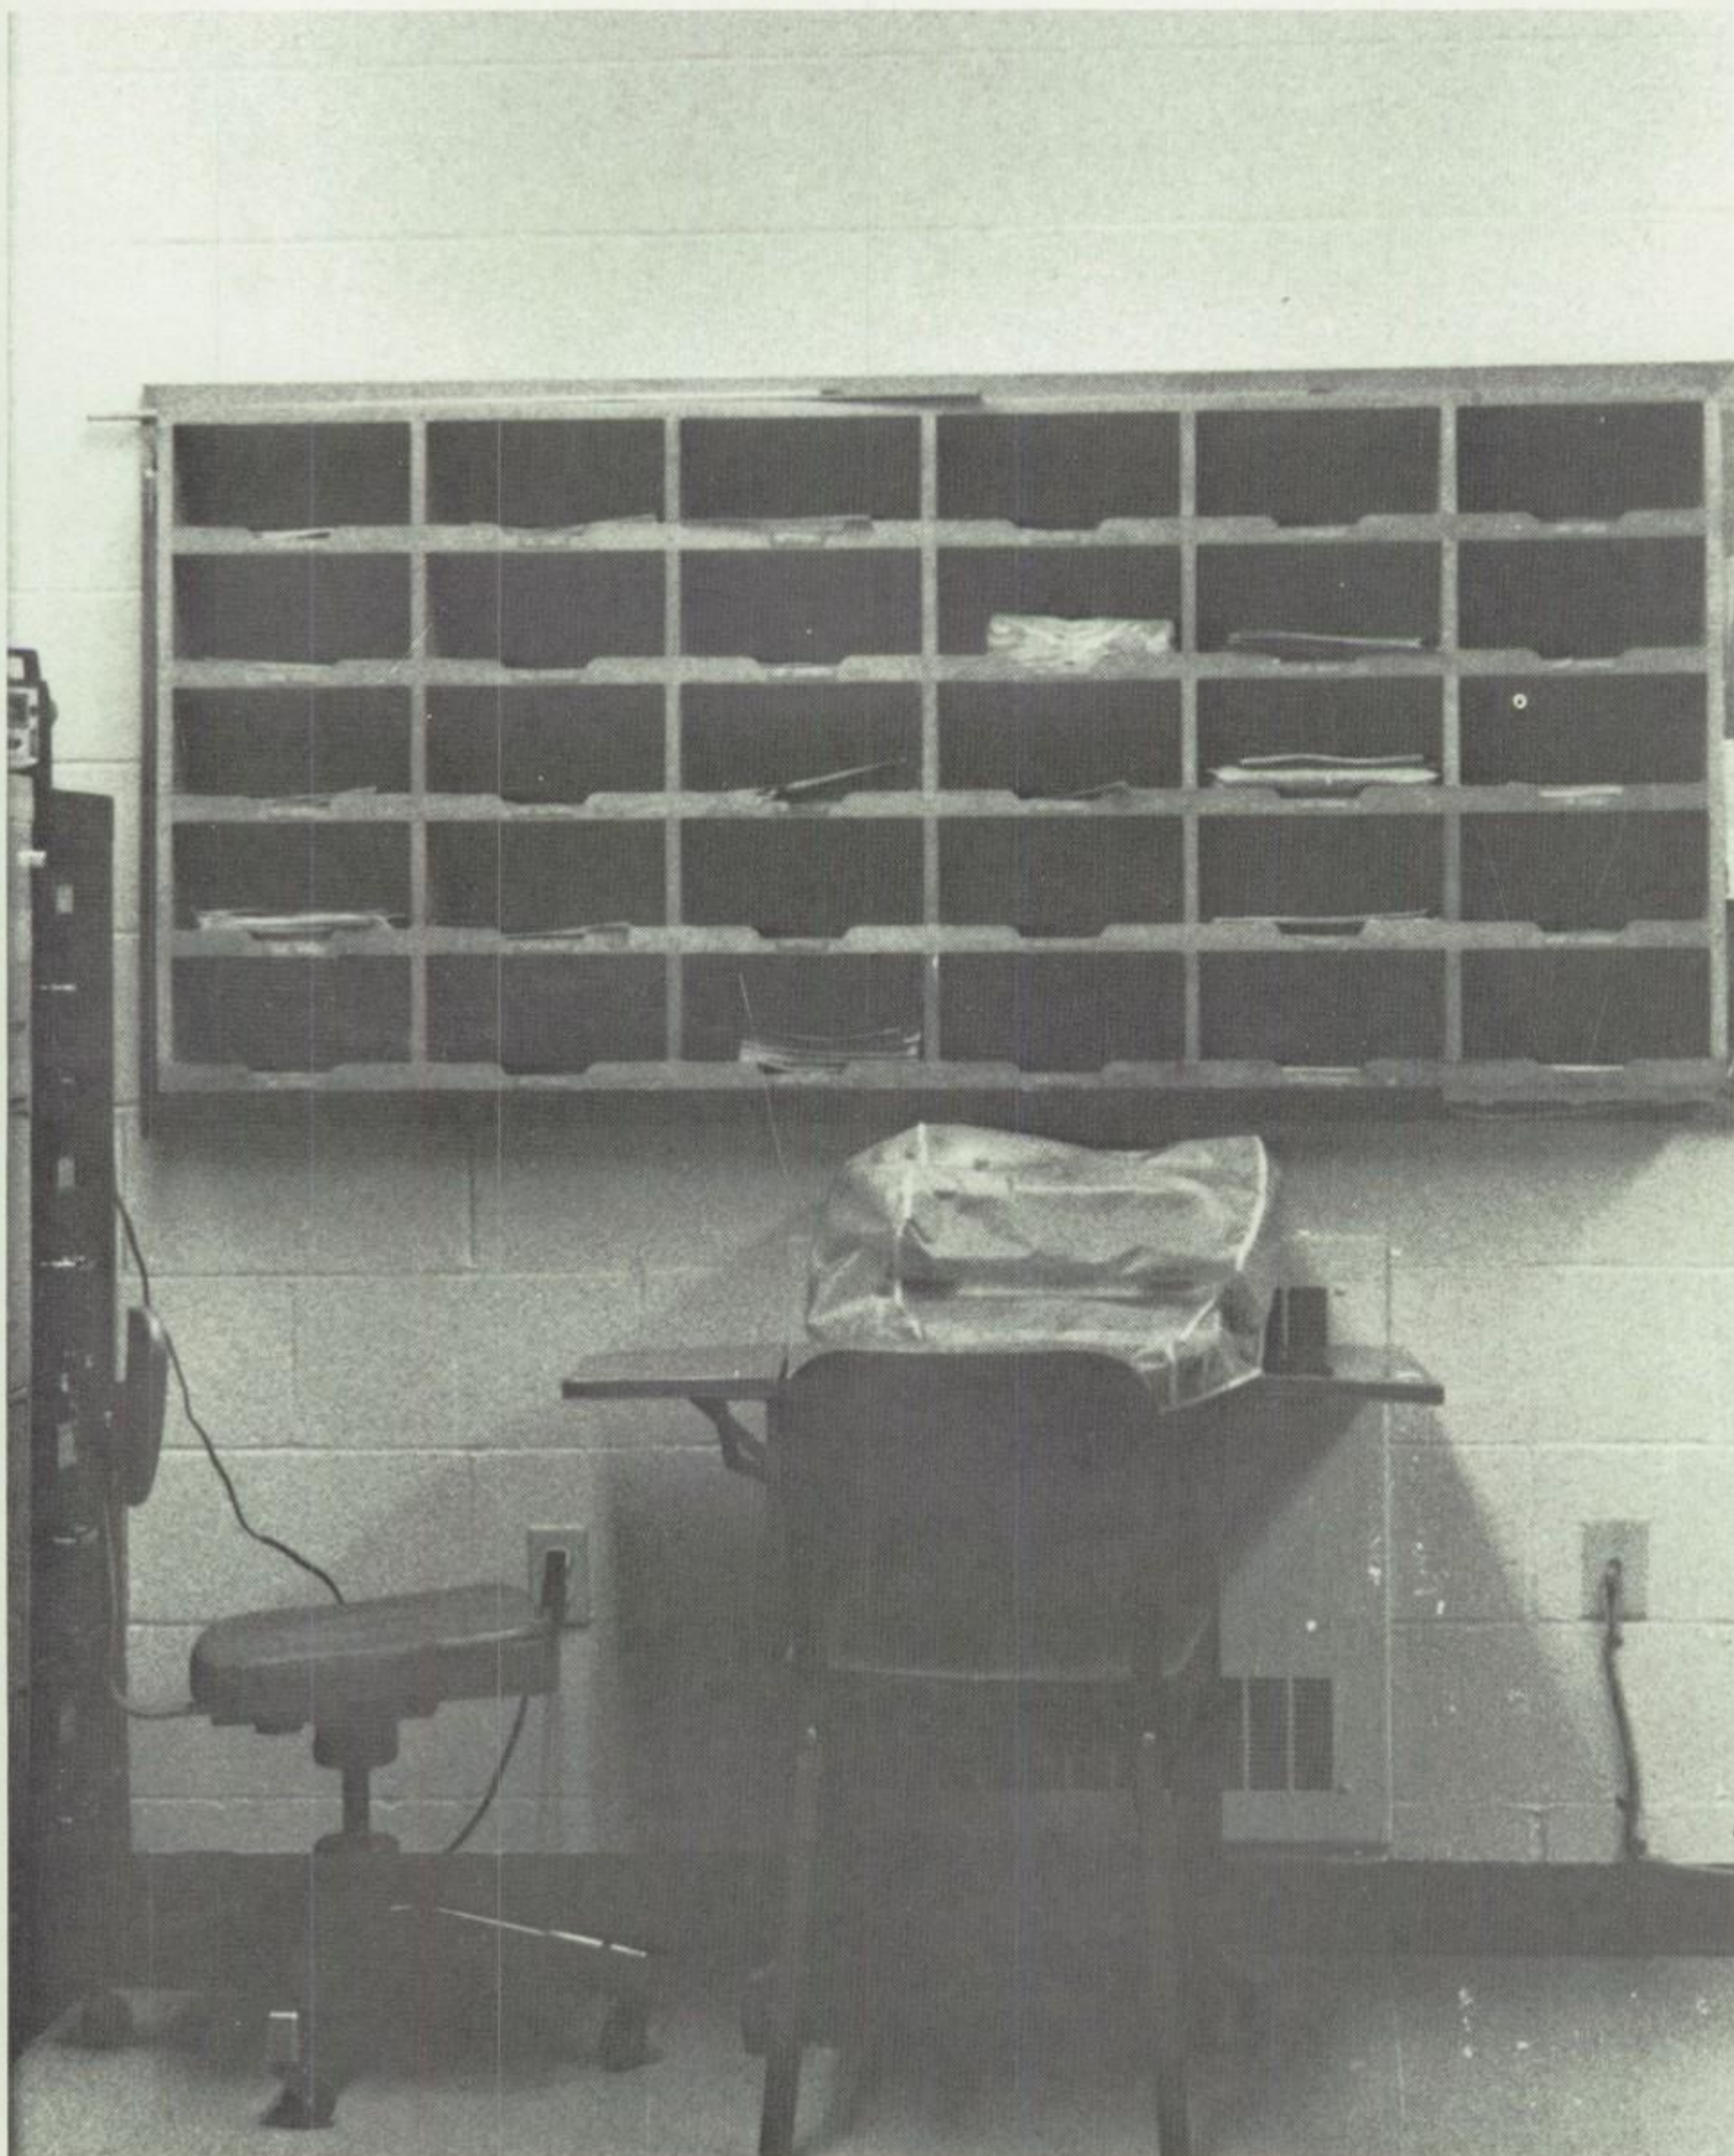

"Calling all cars! There's a 456 in progress at G.H.S.!" says office worker Sharon Eaton.

"If you don't get that camera out of here, I'm going to tip this ladder over on you!" shouts senior Dennis Jones working at Murray's Lumber.

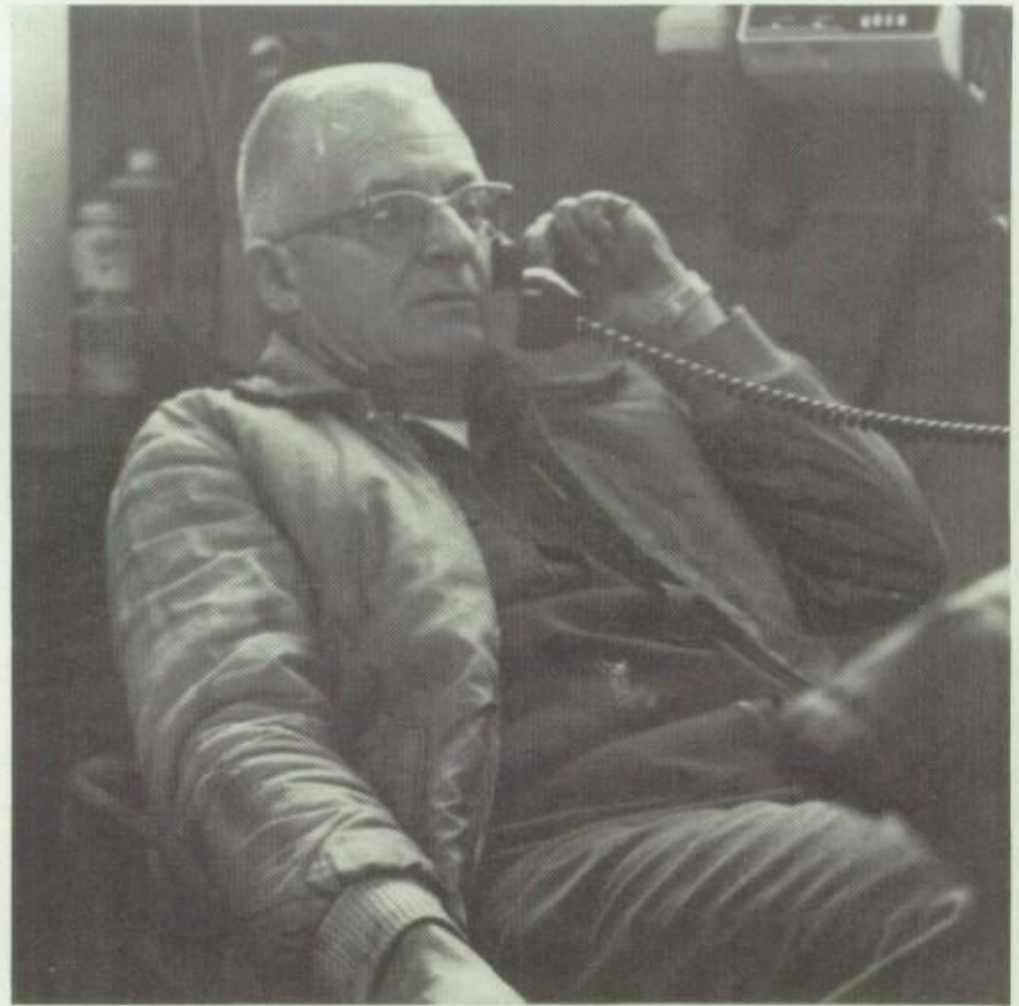

STAFF AND FACULTY

Transportation and Maintenance

The transportation here at GHS works hard and long to insure the safety of the students on their routes to and from school. The drivers do this by giving surprise fire drills during the bus routes and keeping an eye on the passengers at all times.

Mr. Ron Passage, Bus Supervisor, works hard to make the best bus transportation for Grant students.

Help Make The Best of it.

Mrs. Phyllis Zufelt, school nurse, takes care of our ills.

Our cooks, Ellen Laisure, Judy Carlson, Katie Wolfsen, and Eva Vankoevinger, prepare the chuckwagon for another group of hungry students.

Mark Huntoon prepares the path for a day of cleaner education for our student.

Felix Flores battles the germs and dirt that invades the premises.

Cecilla Davis lends a hand to maintain our school's upkeep.

Head custodian Ora Laisure helps manage the school's plumbing and heating problems.

Teachers of Creative Classes Practice What They Preach

After a long day of teaching metals, power mechanics, and basic electricity, Mr. Ben Tront enjoys carpentry. Above Mr. Tront is working on Mrs. Teets' new home.

Besides collecting owls Mrs. Mary Davidson is involved with the Faculty Council, which works to make GHS better. This year Mrs. Davidson is teaching Independent Living, Family Living, and Child Development. Here she's cooking wild pheasant at home.

Mr. Tom Becker, woods and mechanical drawing teacher likes to do carpentry work and furniture construction as his hobbies. Mr. Becker also enjoys coaching sports.

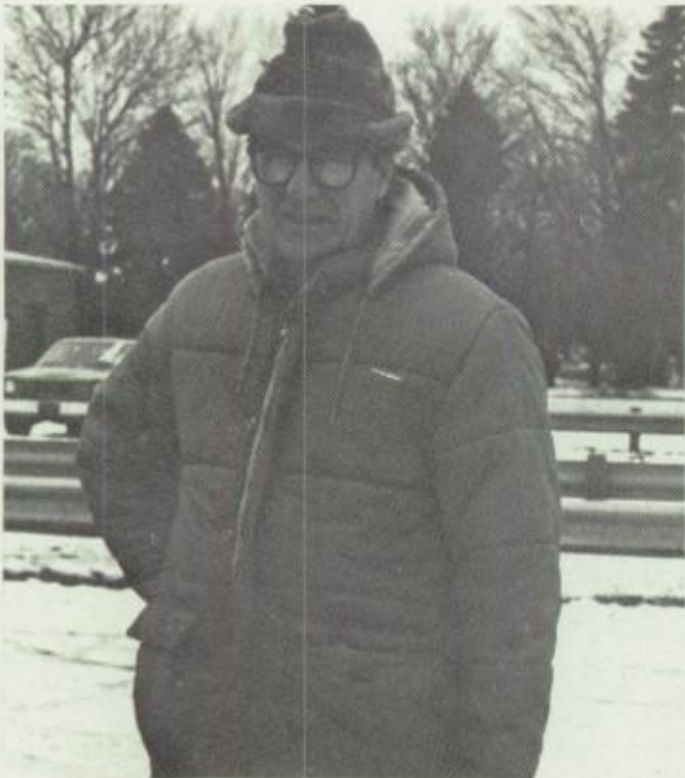

She was a waitress at a college snack shop, a Tastee Freeze, and at a hot dog stand. She is now living on Heritage Hill in Grand Rapids and is restoring a house in the style of the 1920's. Who is she? None other than Ms. Brenda Huckins, art and speech teacher.

Social Science & Music Continue Despite Cut-Backs

"We have two adopted children: Rhonda 11, and Robbi 10, and they sure do create some interesting situations," says Mr. Barry Malone. This past year Mr. Malone has been taking classes for counseling at MSU, but in his spare time he also likes garden work and camping in the different parks around Michigan.

Mr. John Keniston enjoys walking, fishing, and hunting. He graduated from Battle Creek Central High School in 1944. He is now teaching U.S. History and World Geography.

Ms. Shirley Lemon, band and choir director, is busy reading, sewing, bowling, or playing tennis when she isn't with the music students. Her interests include anything that relates to music, singing, or composing. Ms. Lemon sees herself performing in the future.

After serving in the Navy for three years, Mr. Don Clement went to college to become a teacher. He has been teaching at Grant for 30 years. He now is teaching World Geography, Bookkeeping, General Math, and American Literature.

Math, Business Teachers as They Really Are

Mr. Henry Dykema, a 1963 graduate from Grant High School, teaches chemistry, consumers math, Algebra I, and physics. Photography and traveling are some of Mr. Dykema's hobbies.

Mr. Dale Joley attended Michigan Tech and Central, after which he worked in a auto factory. He is now teaching Algebra I & II, geometry and Math IV.

Mrs. Cindy Baldus enjoys plants, sewing, and many kinds of crafts. She graduated from Western and has been teaching at Grant for three years now. Mrs. Baldus is teaching Typing I and shorthand this year.

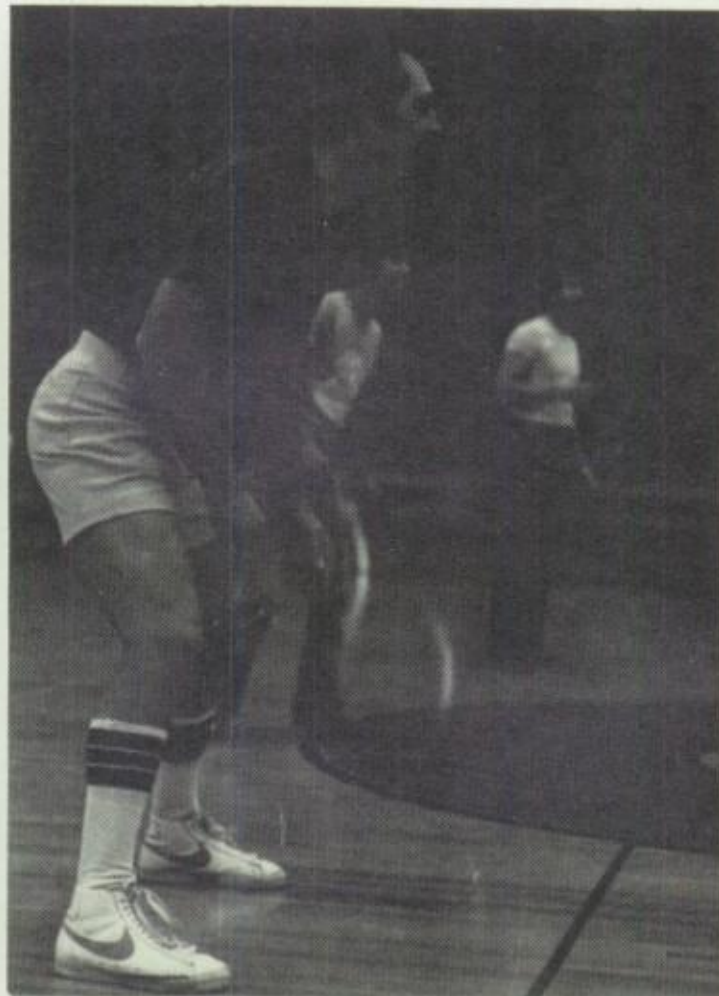

Their Interests Aren't All in Teaching

Miss Teresa Winegarden, the new resource teacher at GHS, has many out-of-school activities such as racquetball and snow and water skiing. She is a former cheerleader from Newaygo, and is now the cheerleading coach here.

During her high school days Ms. Sandy Oudshoorn participated in choir and pep club; she also was involved in softball, volleyball, and basketball. Now she is teaching phys. ed. and Comm. Skills 101 and 201 here at GHS.

Swimming, water skiing and working on his Chevy are Mr. Duane Cober's pastimes when he's not teaching gym and social studies or coaching football.

English Teachers Lead

The English teachers, like those in all departments, have had to put up with many situations created by the millage failure. Some are now teaching classes they have never taught before or haven't taught in several years.

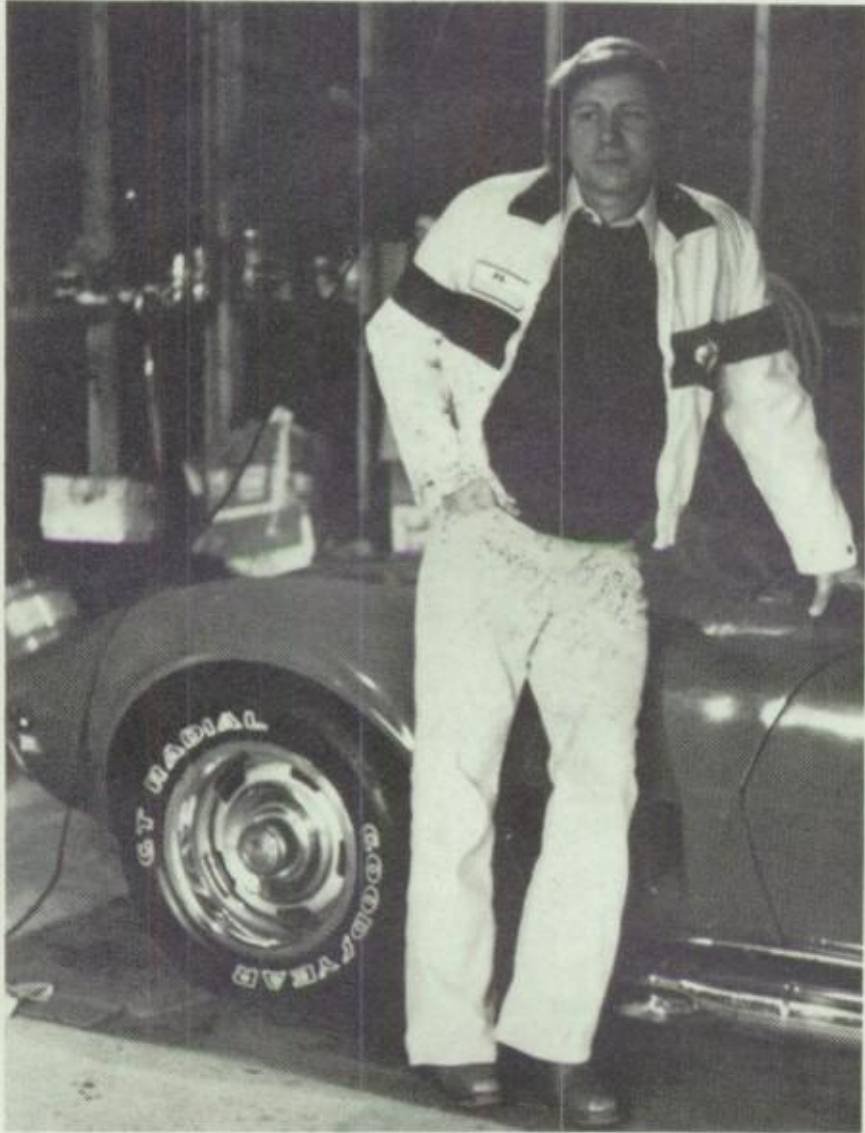

Ms. Carol Korenstra teaches journalism and English. Carol enjoys photography, and playing (learning) the flute. She also enjoys spending time with her cat Fred.

For 27 years Mrs. Clarice Corrigan has been with Grant. Besides being involved as a Spanish and English teacher she also works as a nursery supervisor on Sundays at her church.

Lives More Interesting than Just 'Nouns and Verbs'

For the past 10 years Mr. James Kingma has taught at Grant High. This year he is teaching American Lit. and Comm. Skills 101 & 102. After school Mr. Kingma enjoys reading, fishing and working on old cars, especially his Corvette.

Mrs. Chris Decker teaches American Lit and Vocational English along with her regular job as the librarian. She attended Central Michigan where she received her BA degree. She also enjoys farming with her husband.

There are many sides of Mrs. Jean Teets that we don't know about. For instance, she snow skis, rides bike, and works in her garden, and once she even tried hang-gliding. (But she said she would never do it again.) In the education dept she teaches Comm skills 100 and 200 and American Lit.

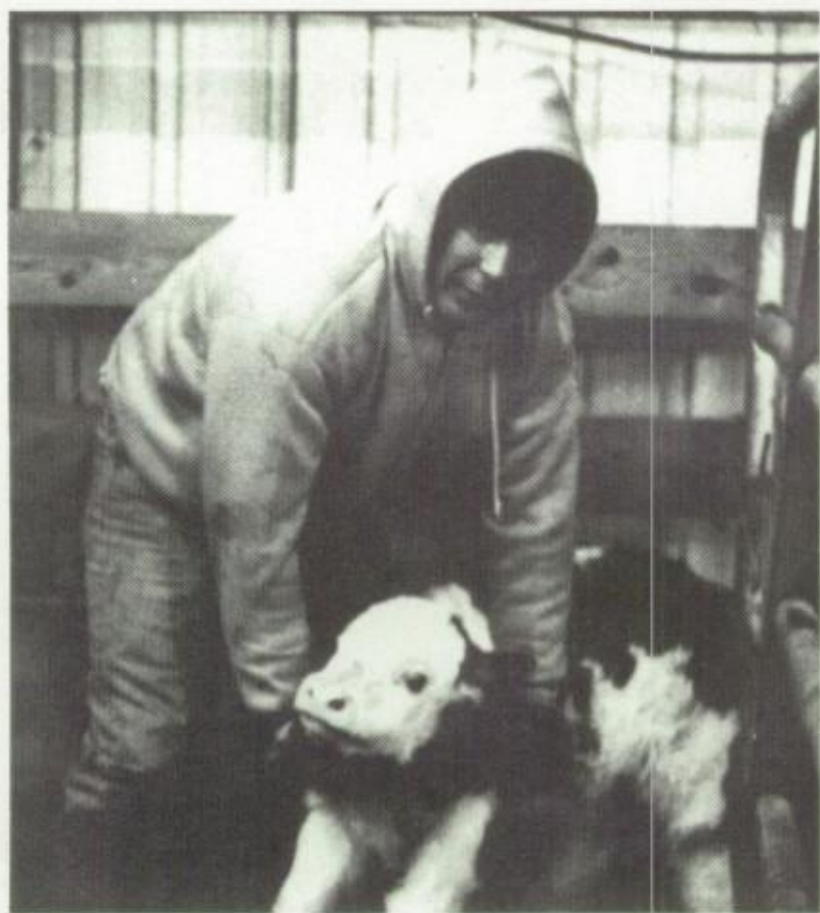

Science Teachers Have Interests of Their Own

Mr. Ron Decker likes to restore antique tractors as well as run his farm in Big Rapids. He is now teaching Environmental Science, Accelerated Biology and Anatomy.

Mrs. Diane Thompson teaches Consumers Math, Life Science and general phys ed. Shown above is Mrs. Thompson and her two sons.

Mr. Grant Fettig, sometimes known as "Fudd" by some, is a graduate of Petoskey High who enjoys hunting and fishing. He is also a former football and basketball player.

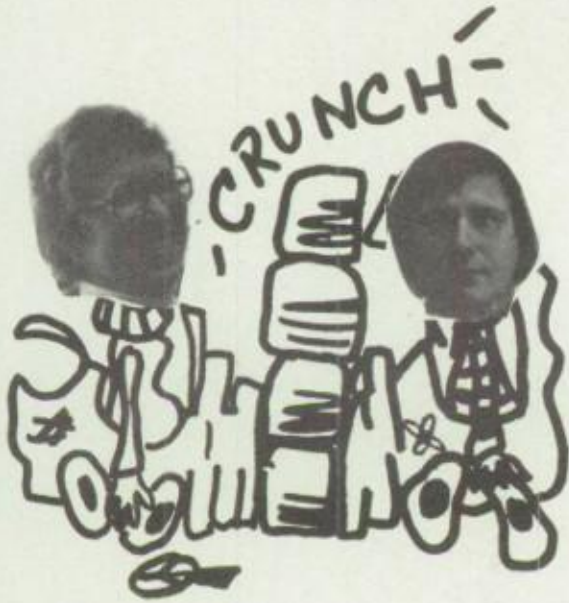

"I'd like it a lot better if I was teaching full time," says Mr. Dennis Atkins, health teacher who was reduced to part time teaching. He also likes to play harmonica and golf.

Administration & Staff Help Grant to

The administration is one of the most important groups of our school. Mr. Murl Connor, Mr. Dan Morgan and their staffs work year-round to make sure things are running smoothly. Their job isn't easy, and this year they have had extra difficulty due to the millage failure.

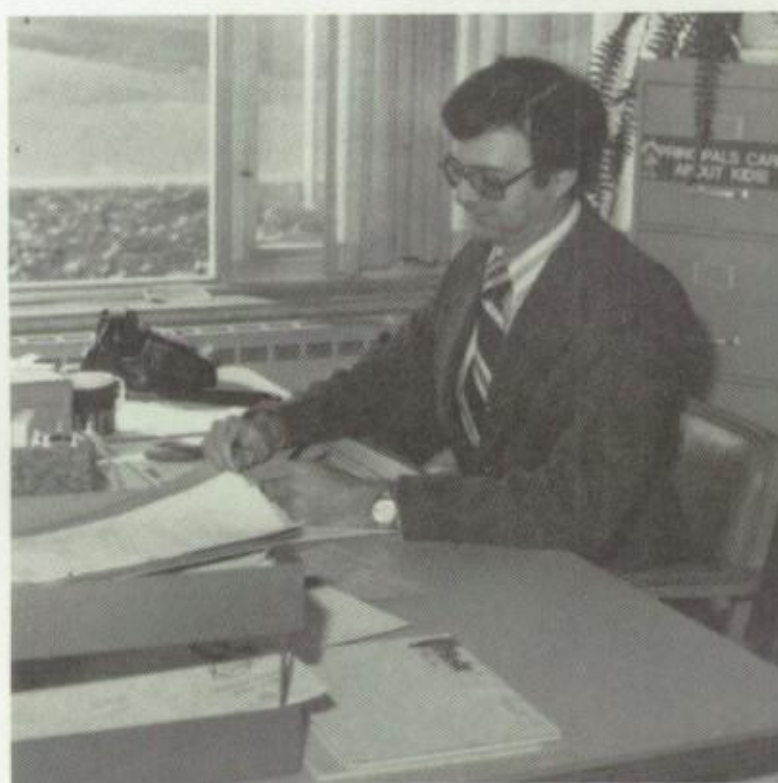

Mr. Murl Connor, superintendent, takes a break from his busy schedule.

Members of the school board are Dallas Dean Jr., Joseph Zerlaut, Bruce Rollston, William Bolthouse, president, Murl Connor.

Mrs. Sally Barager keeps on smiling even though the work piles up.

Mr. Dan Morgan, GHS principal, contemplates his calendar.

Mrs. Ron Milks, athletic director and assistant principal, keeps sports scheduled efficiently and students in line.

These Help Make The Best of 1980-81

Some people feel that if the people pictured on this page were not here day after day, the school would quickly fall apart. Besides being indispensable for their skills in record keeping, filing, and promoting public relations, all have a special gift for working with students and meeting their needs.

"Mr. Morgan always falls for this smile when I need a day off," jokes Mrs. Marie Brown, secretary to the principal.

"Now let me see. Where did I make that mistake?" Mrs. Dena Koron, guidance counselor, seems to ponder.

Mrs. Mary Eggleston is ready for action as a teacher consultant for the entire school system.

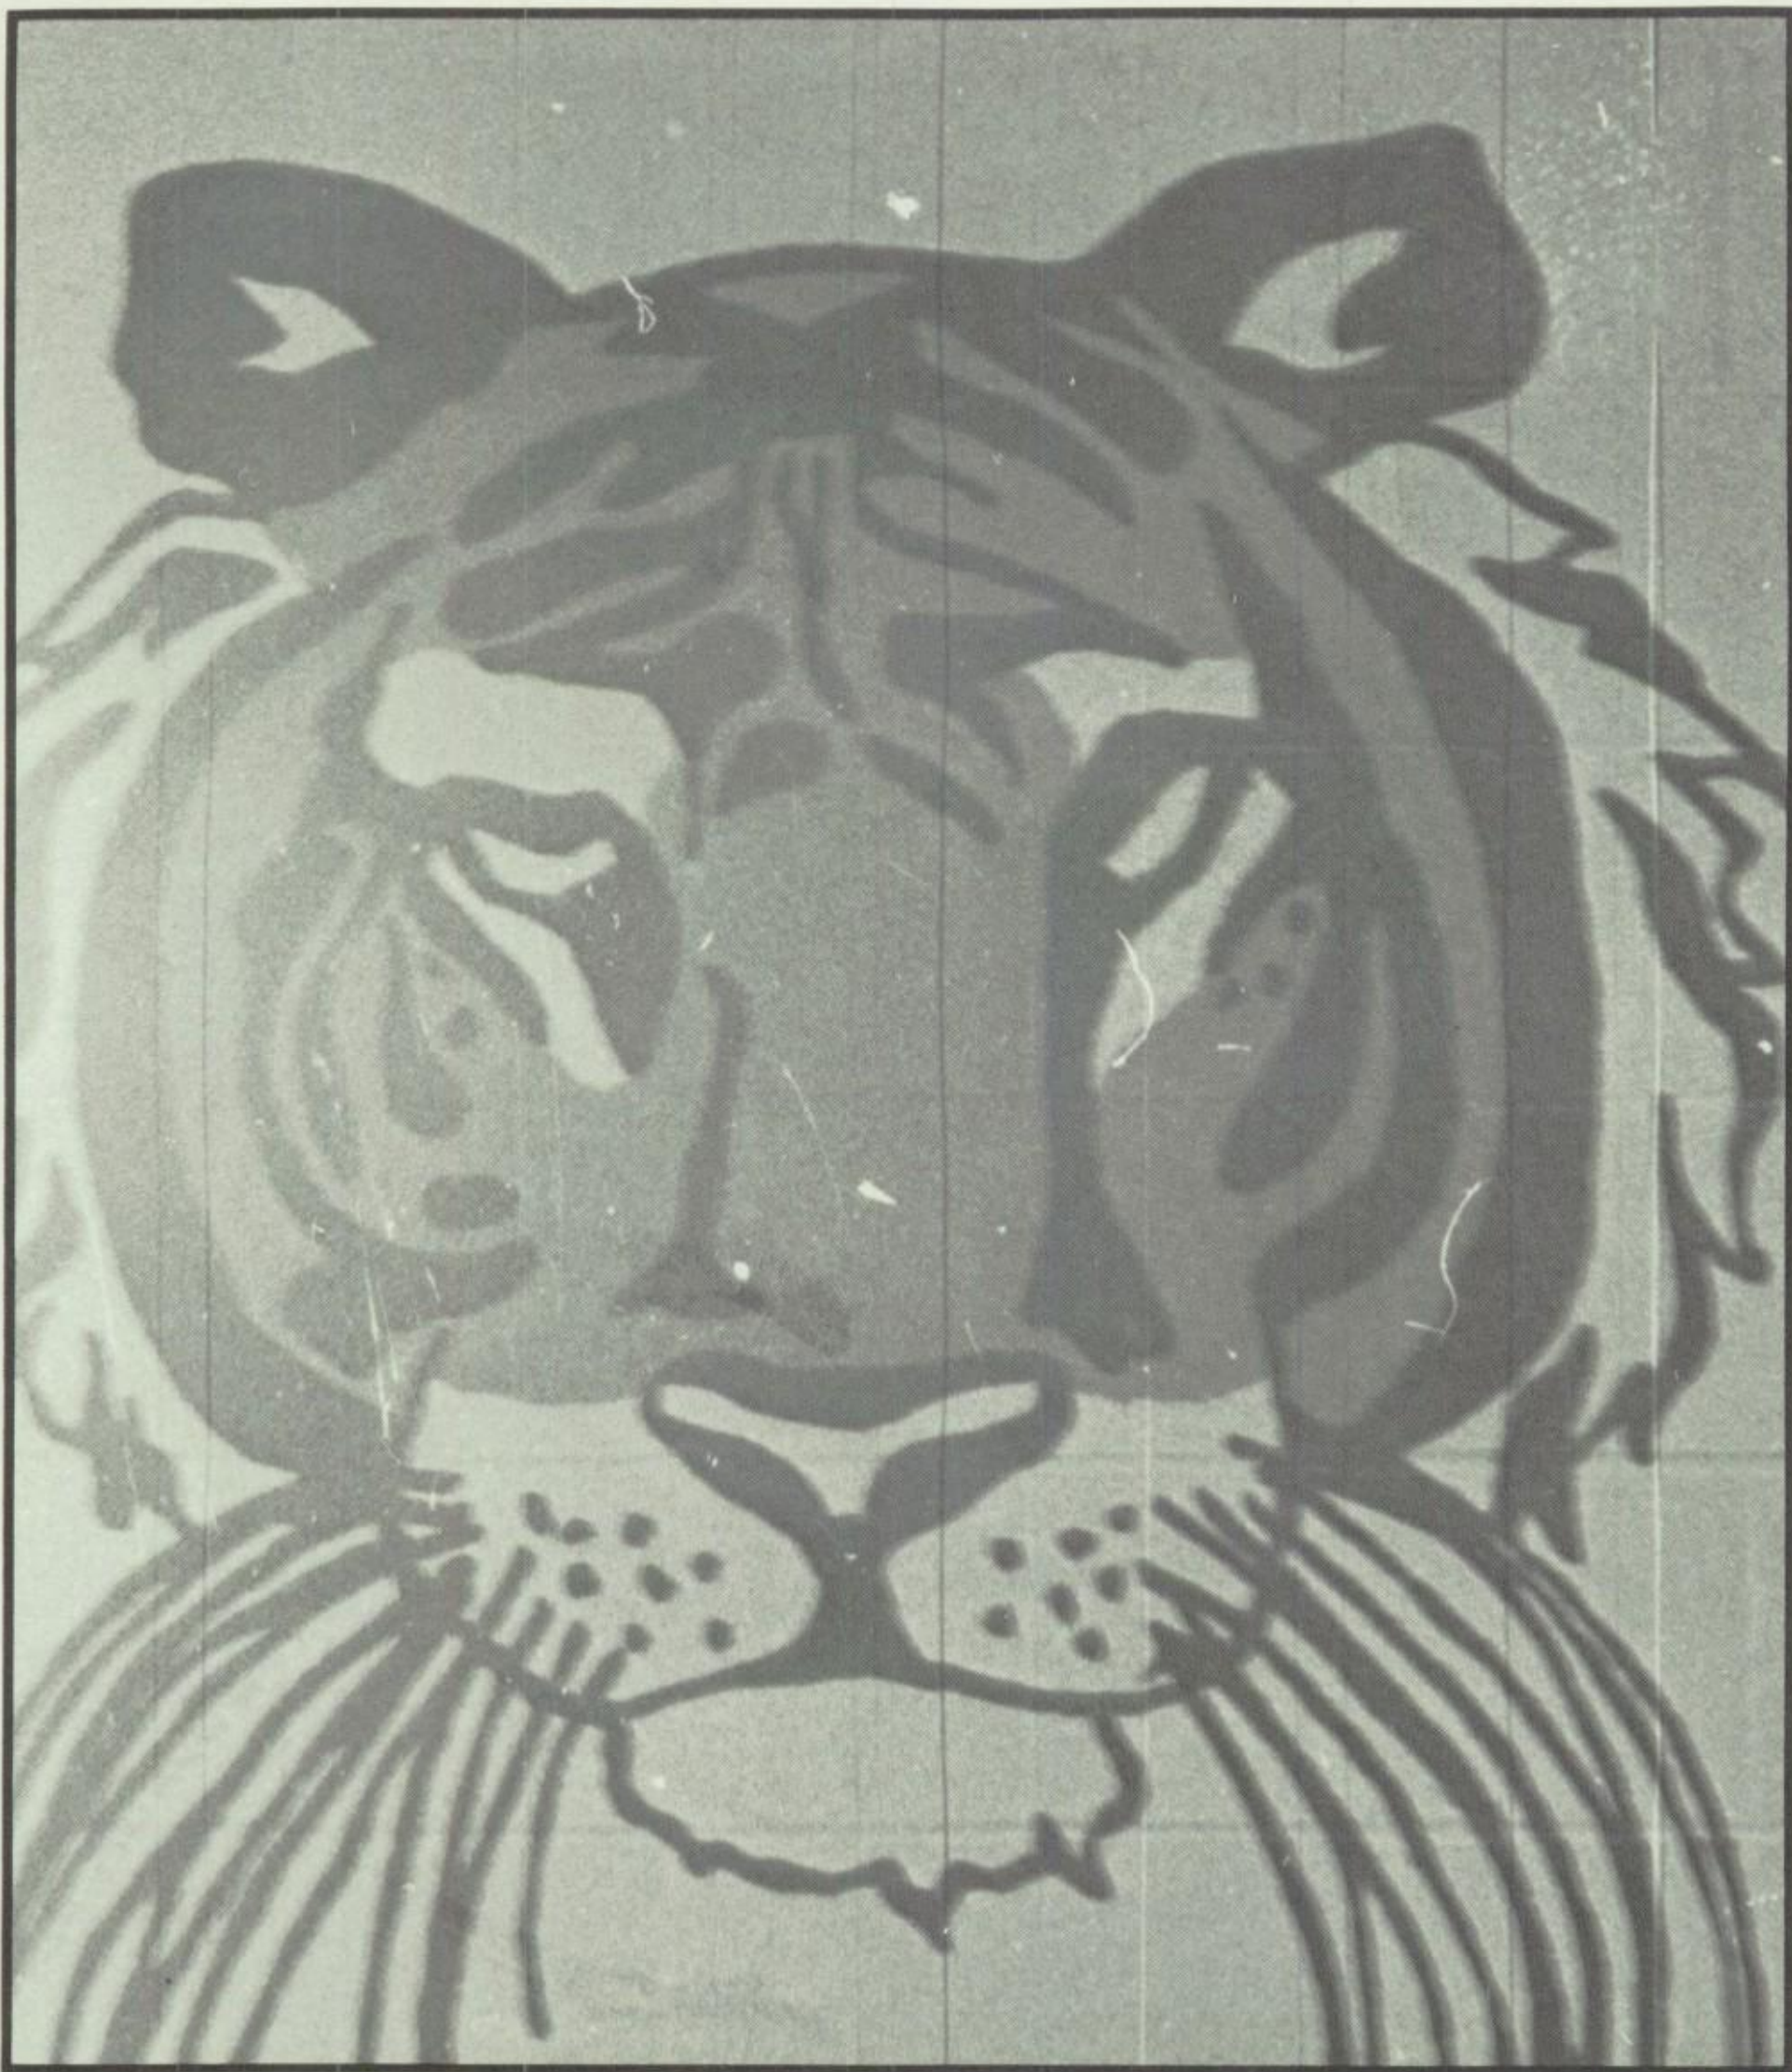

Mrs. Margret Franckowiak, secretary to the counselor, shows us perfect typing techniques; back straight, feet on the floor, and eyes off the keys.

Mrs. Alice Crispin and Mrs. Janet Lesley, GHS accountants, work hard to keep the school's small budget balanced.

SPORTS

Varsity Football

The 1980 football season was one of frustration for both players and coaches. The lack of pre-season scrimmage, several first year players and a small turnout all contributed to the frustration.

Despite the losing record, several players made individual progress. Steve Baldus was named Most Valuable Player, Tim Tibbe was voted Most Improved, and Tim Ransom was given the Tiger Award. Steve Baldus was also named to the Muskegon Chronicle All-Area Second Team on both offense and defense.

Cheerleaders Keep

The cheerleaders went to the International Cheerleading Camp this summer at Ferris State Colleges. Both squads came back with a total of 18 ribbons. They were judged on spirit, talent, and leadership. The varsity squad took a second place overall in the Grand Champ Competition.

JVs Have Bright Moments.

The 1980 Grant JV Tigers football team had some bright moments in spite of the 0-5-1 record it posted. Offensively, the team, led by the leading scorer and ground gainer, Steve Jensen, scored against everyone but Newaygo. Brian Derosiers led the defense with tackles as the Tigers held nearly all of their opponents scoreless the second half. Unfortunately, the losing games were the results of first half mistakes.

"The guys never gave up at any point and they always kept together as a team.

We feel proud that the athletes on this team had that kind of pride and determination, even when behind. The squad's two captains, Oil Can award winner Paul Garza, and Most Valuable Player recipient Candido Rodriquez helped make sure of that," said Coach Dave Dewey.

"We are looking forward to next season, and the people we are looking at to help us are our freshmen, like Carl Afton, this year's Most Improved player, and our group of eighth-grade boys. But some key ingredients will be the enthusiasm and the desire to work hard to improve. Our school has the capability of becoming a winner," added Joe Peterson, coach.

J.V. Basketball Takes Rough Road

Although the girls J.V. basketball team had a good defense and rebounding team they fell to a 3 win, 11 loss season. "The girls had a positive attitude, a lot of team hustle and they never quit," commented Coach Dennis Atkins.

Most Valuable Player Award went to Sara Murray, Most Improved to Diana Pattock and Michelle Mansfield, and Most Spirited to Vanessa Gragg. The Tiger Award went to Melissa Tellkamp.

Brenda Ford shows her style with a jump shot.

The girls Varsity basketball team had a disappointing season. The final record ended with two wins and thirteen losses.

The season's highlights were bested by these individuals:

Most Steals: Hilda Rodriguez

Highest Career Game: Robin Hudson

The awards ceremony was held at the Grant Depot. Brenda Ford received the Most Improved Award and Hilda Rodriguez happily accepted the Tiger Award.

Varsity Volleyball Team Looks Ahead

The Varsity volleyball team had a lot of enthusiasm and dedication which made up for the inexperience of playing together. They worked hard on skills and played some good volleyball, according to their coach, Sandy Oudshoorn, who feels that this year's experience should improve their performance next season.

Varsity Volleyball Scores 1980: Record 2-5

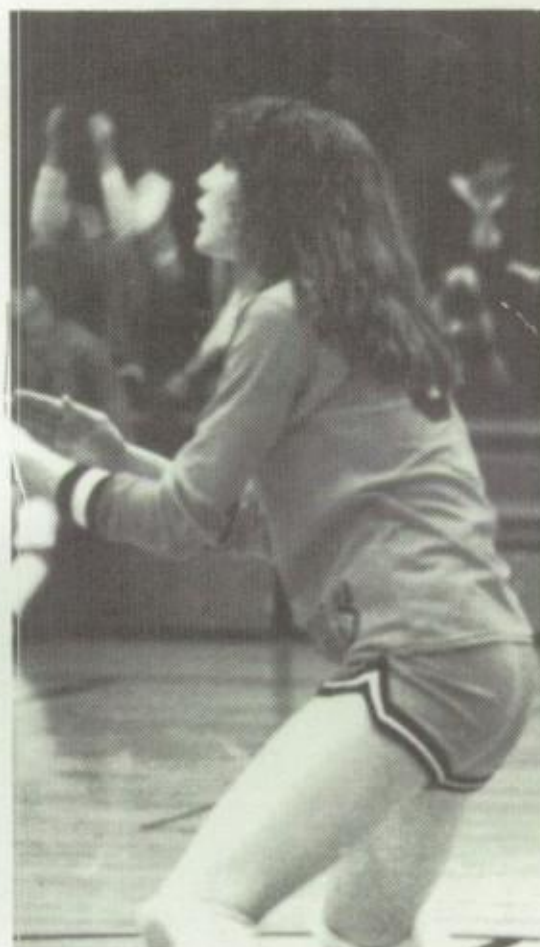

Holton: 15-7, 13-15, 15-12	Won

With only two returning players from last year, the Junior Varsity volleyball team had to work a lot on the basic skills. Most of their losses were close and could have gone either way. With the experience gained this season, they should be much stronger next year, Coach Sandy Oudshoorn stated.

UNDERCLASSMEN

The Junior Class presented the 1981 Prom this past spring. The class members raised the necessary funds with the annual Junior Class Magazine Drive. The goal was voted on and set at $4,000. An added enticement was presented to the class by Mr. Morgan, principal, who stated that if the class reached its goal, he would accept a pie in the face. The juniors exceeded their goal by $200 and Mr. Morgan loved his chocolate cream pie.

That was just one exciting aspect of being a junior during '80-'81 school year.

FRESHMEN

Scot Cave, president; Mark Brock, vice-president;
Diana Pattock, secretary; Becky Jordan, treasurer.

The Class of 1984 adjusted very well to the life of a high schooler. They quickly mastered the 3-minute interval between classes and the split lunch periods. To add to the changes, the lockers here are smaller!

Enthusiasm? They've got it! They tried their best in every thing—like hall decorations, Homecoming Week, etc. and although they never made the top on every event, they enjoyed the experiences.
